THERE'S GOT TO BE A MORNING AFTER - And for the James Kirk family of 908 Lincoln Drive, by the grace of God, there was. The photo on the left is a silhouette of Washington C.H. firemen as they battled a blaze which

totally consumed the Kirk home and resulted in the injury of eight persons, four of which were firemen. The blaze was the result of a gas explosion which occured at 6:36 p.m. Wednesday while the Kirks and a Dayton Power and Light

Co. worker were searching for the gas leak in the Kirk basement. Dale Dawes, a Dayton Power and Light Co. repairman, was critically burned. The photo on the right shows how the scene looked the following morning. The home next-door belonging to Leo B. Edwards, 902 Lincoln Drive, incurred about $15,000 damage when it to caught fire from the Kirk explosion.

Eight persons injured as home explodes

By MARK THELLMANN

Eight persons were injured, four of them Washington C. H. firefighters, in a fire and explosion which totally demolished the Jim Kirk residence at 908 Lincoln Drive, at 6:36 p.m. Wed-

The person sustaining the greatest injury was Dale Dawes, 45, Rt. 1, Washington C. H., who is listed in "critical" condition at Mercy Hospital in Columbus with second and third degree burns of the arms, hands, face, neck, head and back

Dawes, a Dayton Power and Light Co. employe, was in the basement of the Kirk residence with Kirk, 35, his wife Edith, 34, and daughter, Tammy, 13, checking a gas leak. The Kirks were admitted to Fayette County Memorial Hospital and are in "satisfactory" condition.

As is normally done when checking a light, hard to detect leak, an air compressor was hooked up to the line to increase the leak for easier detection. when the compressor was plugged in,

according to Washington C. H. firemen, a spark jumped from the electrical socket and caused the gas within the home to explode, blowing out the walls and sweeping fire throughout what was left of the structure.

Kirk ran up the basement stairs, his coat in flames. He managed to extinguish the fire on his clothing and then run back for Tammy. After getting his daughter out of the house, he returned for his wife who was already making her way up the stairs.

Dawes, who was unfamiliar with the house, finally made his way outside and was found by Washington C. H. Police Specialist Larry Walker, lying outside saying "Oh my God, help me. There are still people inside," not knowing the Kirks had escaped from the house, at this time totally engulfed in flames.

Spec. Walker and his wife had been driving in the area on Columbus Avenue at the time of the explosion. He stated the sky turned a brilliant orange color and he instructed his wife to turn down Lincoln Drive. Upon seeing the Kirk residence in flames, he radioed from the car back to police headquarters requesting all available units, ambulances and fire trucks be

Spec. Walker than ran from the car to Dawes, the first person he saw. He helped him away from the fire and laid him down until help arrived.

An unidentified man approached carrying a black bag. He announced to Spec. Walker he was a medic and Spec. Walker told him to stay with Dawes. Washington C. H. Municipal Court Judge Robert L. Simpson, who also lives on Lincoln Drive, ran over to Spec. Walker who instructed him to call an ambulance.

Spec. Walker then ran to the Leo B. Edwards residence, 902 Lincoln Drive, next-door to the Kirk home to see if they were out of their house which had also caught fire. They were.

Two fire trucks and a number of police units and ambulances were soon at the scene. The Kirks were taken to Fayette County Memorial Hospital for treatment. Kirk suffered first and second degree burns of the face, hands, feet and knees; Mrs. Kirk suffered second and third degree burns of the face and hands and Tammy Kirk suffered second and third degree burns of the face, hands and knees. All three were admitted to the hospital and are presently reported in satisfactory condition. A second Kirk daughter, Kim, 16, was not at home at the time of

Some 21 regular and volunteer firefighters responded to the call for help and fought the blaze for five hours. Three firemen were overcome by smoke. They were Assistant Fire Chief John P. Rockhold, 31, of 4 Winnepeg Plaza; Lt. Cecil Seaman, 28, of 549 Waverly Drive; and volunteer fireman Danny Flowers, 29, of 678 Robinson Road. Seaman and Flowers were treated at the scene with oxygen and did not go to the hospital. Rockhold was taken to Fayette County Memorial Hospital by ambulance, treated and released. A fourth fireman, Jay Smith, 32, of 903 Hinde St., sustained a puncture wound of the left knee when he kneeled on a nail. He was treated and released at Fayette County Memorial

The Kirk home was estimated at a total loss of $50,000. The Edwards home next-door incurred approximately $15,000 damage. The side of the Edwards home facing the Kirk residence was severely damaged and there was smoke and water damage throughout the house.

Firemen was summoned again to the scene shortly after they returned to the fire station at 11:45 p.m.

A rag was found smoldering in the Kirk basement and was easily extinguished.

Seaman stated a basement fire is one of the most dangerous of all fires to contend with. "Not only is it almost impossible to get to, but if a fireman is overcome in a basement, he falls into the water lying within and drowns," Seaman said. He added there was at least a foot and a half of water in the Kirk basement after the fire was

To complicate matters even more, firemen were alerted to a minor car fire and Washington C. H. police were called to an accident in which a car had struck an elderly pedestrian while firefighters were battling the blaze at the Kirk residence.

Gilmore proposes 24 units

Preliminary plans OKd for apartment project

Preliminary plans for a 24-unit apartment complex in the vicinity of the Washington Country Club were approved by members of the Washington C. H. City Planning Commission Wednesday night.

City planners approved the preliminary plans submitted by Jess Gilmore, of Gilmore Homes, Inc., pending sufficient recreational area be provided in the final plans. Gilmore plans to construct 24 additional two-bedroom apartment buildings on a 2.3-acre site on Country Club Court, which is situated near the

Washington Country Club The proposed project will expand the number of apartments in the development off Leesburg Avenue to 177, Gilmore said.

Gilmore presently owns a total of 153 apartment units situated on a 15-acre site on Wagner Court, Wagner Way, Colonial Court and Country Club Drive.

Planning commission members were concerned over the amount of recreation area in the development. Since the site is less than 20 acres 2,300 square feet of play area is required.

'Considering the voter apathy here, the city's financial condition and the proposed budget cuts which will possibly affect the city's recreational facilities, I believe that if we don't get recreational areas taken care of in the subdivisions, it looks like we won't have any at all," said planning commission member Eddie Fisher. "We're (the city) lacking recreational facilities period.

Gilmore said the final plans for the project would contain an area for recreational facilities and that the western boundary of the development would be more defined. An application for a minor subdivision was unanimously approved by city planning commission members. The two-lot subdivision, containing west of U.S. 35. The lots, owned by Raymond G. Rittenhouse, 1392 Ohio 41-S, are situated within a three-mile limit of Washington C. H. and come under the city planning commission's jurisdiction for development.

3.77 acres, is located on Bogus Road,

The city's planners also approved a split in two lots (numbers 63 and 64) on Harrison Street near the Oak Street intersection. Alvin Dorn, 2732 CCC Highway-E, owns boths lots and had requested that the common boundary between the lot be altered to form two new lots. The action had been approved

Proposal endorsed by Fayette County commissioners

Five-county girls rehabilitation center being planned

By GEORGE MALEK

A girls rehabilitation center is being planned in Ross County to serve a five-county area, and the Fayette County Board of Commissioners has expressed a willingness to participate.

Officials of the Scioto-Paint Valley Mental Health Center have proposed establishing a "half-way house" for unruly and delinquent girls ages 14-17. The home would offer juvenile court judges an alternative to probation, commitment to the Ohio Youth Commission facility in Columbus and commitment to mental

According to Fayette County Juvenile Court Judge Rollo M. Marchant, there has been a sharp increase in juvenile cases involving girls in recent years. In some cases, no present means of dealing with their individual problems is currently available, and the proposed home would offer a "middle-of-the-road"

At the present time, a girl with an emotional problem can be placed on probation which offers her only intermittent guidance from an already overburdened probation officer. She can also be committed to the Ohio Youth Commission facility in Columbus which itself can be a traumatic experience. If her problem is severe, she may be committed to a state mental health facility, but this is usually not the case.

The girls group home would offer a domestic-type atmosphere with "house parents" and approximately 10 girls. Professional counseling would be available from a caseworker and an activities therapist who would be employed full-time. Each girl in the home would receive individual counseling two days per week as well as group sessions and consultations with the parents present. Assignments to the home would be made through the juvenile court or other agency and approved by the staff at the mental health center clinic. Girls would enter the home on a voluntary basis.

Girls assigned to the home would remain for a period of approximately six to nine months, depending on their individual progress.

The five-county area to be served by the facility would include Fayette, Pike, Highland, Pickaway and

Although statistics from 1975 are not available from each of the counties, they disclosed an increase of nearly 40 per cent in the number of juvenile cases involving girls from 1972 to 1974. Fayette County had 40 female juvenile offenders in 1974, and Judge Marchant said the number is spiraling upward. In 1972, Fayette

County had only 23 juvenile cases involving girls. There is definitely a need for such a facility, the judge said. Under the proposal, Fayette County could send only one or two girls each year, and Judge Marchant said that a greater number could benefit from such rehabilitation. As presently outlined, the program would cost approximately $78,500 annually to operate. Another $6,000 would be needed for furniture and other goods which would not have to be replaced each year. Almost all of the money would be supplied by state and federal agencies, and no money is being sought from the Fayette County treasury.

Since it is unlikely that more than 20 girls could be served each year, the cost per girl amounts to about $4,000. Although this cost is extremely high, Judge Marchant noted that anytime a group is provided professional guidance on an individual basis, the cost becomes an obstacle.

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners has recognized the need for such a facility by endorsing the project, but commissioners were careful to avoid any possible financial commitment at the present time.

The proposal will now be submitted to state and federal officials in an effort to obtain financial support.

Rain finally brings relief from drought in California

even the cactus started puckering, but California is finally getting some miserable weather and everyone - well almost everyone - is thankful.

First some sprinkles of rain came up from Mexico's Baja California, leaving a light dusting of moisture to officially end Southern California's worst dry

It was Los Angeles' first rain since Dec. 12 and ended the area's driest stretch since 1903-4.

By nightfall Wednesday, only .13 of an inch had fallen in downtown Los Angeles. Until that drizzle hit the dust. however, the area had seen only .59 inches since July 1 - compared with .57 inches in the century's worst local dry spell.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - It got so dry November for the crop-heavy San Joaquin Valley

State officials have placed crop and livestock losses at more than $30 million and economists predicted higher food prices because of the drought which forced some counties to seek disaster aid.

Stock list falls back

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market fell back today under the pressure of profit taking and concern over interest rates. The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down 2.20 at 974.42. Among issues listed on the New York Stock Exchange, price gainers were just fractionally ahead of losers. The Dow had risen to its highest close since October 1973 on Wednesday, leading to some profit taking. Brokers noted some bearish sentiment over recent increases in short-term interest rates and the Federal Reserve's slight lowering of its target growth rate for the money supply.

AT&T was the most active issue, falling 3/8 to 545/8, the trading price for a block of 127,300 shares. The company said Wednesday its calendar 1975 earnings were down after three years

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks dipped .18 to At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index added .44 to 98.76.

IRS chief faces grand jury probe

WASHINGTON (AP) - Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said today that the commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service and other top officials of the agency will appear before a grand jury next week on an unspecified matter growing out of allegations against the tax-collection agency.

A statement released by Simon offered no specifics on what topics are under consideration by the federal grand jury, which he said is sitting already in Washington.

IRS Commissioner Donald C. Alexander has been the target recently of allegations that he hampered investigations into the use of Bahamian banks for tax avoidance and provided favored treatment to members of Congress with various responsibilities over the agency or the tax code.

Simon noted that Treasury investigations of the allegations already have been launched, and he said the results have been shared with congressional committees and the Justice Department.

Among the Treasury investigations which have been disclosed so far is one involving allegations that Alexander had blocked tax audits and investigations of Sen. Joseph M. Montoya. The New Mexico Democrat heads the subcommittee which oversees the IRS budget. Both the IRS and Montoya have denied that he received any special favors.

The Washington Post and columnist Jack Anderson also have said that Rep. Ullman, D-Ore., received preferential treatment when his 1974 tax return was audited. Again, IRS and the congressman involved denied any special favors.

Alexander came under fire last September for the suspension of the "Project Haven" investigation into the use of Bahamian banks to shield income from U.S. taxes. Alexander contended that suspension of the project, which has now been lifted, was to determine whether evidence in any of the cases had been tainted by questionable methods of acquiring the documents.

Firemen give pay proposal

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) - Firemen submitted a pay proposal Wednesday to the mayor that would raise individual salaries by $1,500 a man.

Kelson Dearth, chairman of the negotiating committee for the Fire Fighters Local 266, delivered the contract requests to the mayor.

Besides the pay hike, firemen are also seeking a cost-of-living increase. They want dental and optical care added to the current hospitalization plan at 100 per cent cost to the city. Firemen, after a one-year probationary period, receive $10,962

NEW YORK (AP) - Question: If a wealthy fan of a presidential candidate buys air time to tout his man - but his man hasn't authorized it - can the opposition demand equal air time from the radio or TV stations involved?

Answer from the Federal Communications Commission: We don't

The question never has come up for a ruling, the FCC says.

But it may, due to the recent Supreme Court overhaul of federal election finance rules which could pave the way for a big broadcast blitz on behalf of a candidate, with no spending limits on those paying for it.

The court left as is the current $1,000 limit any individual can contribute to a candidate's election each year.

But it held that individuals or groups can spend — as opposed to contribute without limit to promote their man, as long as he or his campaign troops haven't authorized it or discussed the If any such prearrangement in this outside spending is proved, the spending is considered a contribution subject to limit, if not politically embarrassing cries of illegality from the But if they obey the law, there's nothing to prevent individuals or groups from running a massive, costly wildcat campaign on the air when their candidate and his committees say they didn't authorize it. The FCC says it has no limits on how much can be spent for political advertising on radio and television. It says when a legally qualified presidential candidate buys air time to speak his piece, the broadcaster must give the opposition a similar opportunity

But what about equal time for opponents of a candidate who, although he hasn't authorized it, is praised in a broadcast ad for which air time was bought by an independent, unofficial group of supporters?

'Well, you have raised a question the commission has never had to decide," an FCC spokesman said.

Those who hate political advertising on radio and TV can relax for the time being. ABC, CBS and NBC say no one has yet approached them to buy air time for an unauthorized-by-the-candidate campaign. However, it may happen to local stations during primary

What are the chances of such wildcat campaigns on the air this year?

Well, there's always the possibility that somebody's going to do it on a small scale," says Herbert Alexander, an authority on campaign finance laws and director of the Citizens Research Foundation, which studies political campaign spending

Whether it would even involve the broadcast media or very much money is very hard to predict," he said.

'Well, I think it's more likely that that kind of independent spending is more likely to take place in the print media than in broadcasting.

'The reason is, you occasionally see a full page newspaper ad that says, This is why I'm supporting candidate X.' But you don't often hear television radio spots saying the same thing.

And so I don't think it's likely to affect the broadcast media as much as it would the print media.

Mead reports good earnings

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) - Mead Corp. said it achieved its second best earnings in history with net profits for 1975 $52.8 million, or $3.07 per common share. That was second to 1974 when the company recorded record net earnings of nearly $82 million, or $4.90 per common share.

The manufacturer of paper and related products, school and office supplies, precision castings and furniture, posted sales of $1.245 billion in 1975, compared to $1.526 billion in 1974.

Testing center funding sought

WASHINGTON (AP) - U. S Rep. Clarence Brown, R-Springfield, has asked U.S. transportation Secretary William Coleman to explain why the projected 1977 federal budget doesn't include a $13.5 million auto testing center for Ohio.

In a letter to Coleman, Brown noted the project had been promised for the Ohio Transportation Research Center near Bellefontaine.

Brown says he is concerned that money intended for the auto testing project may have been diverted.

France revives flagging lottery

state lotteries are running into trouble, France's weekly flutter is going from strength to strength and a new gambling game is to be introduced this year "We felt there was a hole in our gambling structure that needed to be filled" said Claude Blondin, assistant lotteries director, "so we decided upon the Loto. The game is simple, but the bettor complicate it if he wishes. Basically the aim is to pick six numbers, between one and 49, to match a random selection of numbered balls drawn from a whirling tumbler by lottery officials.

Players can combine various selections of six numbers to increase their chances of getting all six correct chances, Blondin says, which are statistically very small. 'But if anyone hits all six he will get a colossal payoff for his basic bet of two to three francs (34 to 51 U.S. cents) for two sets of six numbers," Blondin adds. Three out of six numbers will pay off six to eight times the bet, but no figures can be estimated until the Loto starts.

The game will begin in the greater Paris region in spring, and Blondin hopes it will be nationwide within two years

The administration's faith in the gambling instincts of the French is reflected in the fact that the Loto will need a series of regional data processing centers for its operations. Entry forms will be read by computers which will then check winning entries and determine the payout.

France's regular lottery, founded in its present form 43 years ago, has itself taken on new life in the past two years, Bloindin said.

'We were stagnant in current franc steadily downhill in real terms - until we really started to push to 'rejuvenate the image' of the lottery," he said.

'Ticket sales have been rising very considerably since then, even in real terms, and the most significant change has been that players are buying whole tickets instead of the one-tenth That usually means an investment of 50 francs ($11) instead of five francs (1.10), but the potential return is one million francs (227,000). All lottery winning are tax free. One special drawing has a prize of 5 million francs ($1,136,000)

A sign of the times is that there will be only four 30 francs ($6.80) ticket lotteries this year, whereas tis was the base price several years ago.

East Clinton senior discovers formula for reaching his goal

That is Jeff Aldridge's comment on the heavy and varied schedule of class and activities he's keeping during his last semester at East Clinton High School. Planning to pursue a career in physics, he seems to have found the formula for reaching his goal.

Jeff is a special early admissions student at Southern State College, Wilmington. He received approval to combine college-level basic science and English courses with classes in government and advanced chemistry at East Clinton. Recently, he received a letter of acceptance from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. where he will major in physics next

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Glatis Aldridge, 89 Silver Maple Court, Sabina, also participates in an array of extra-curricular activities that would seem to leave little time for studying. Yet Jeff has maintained an overall 3.9 grad point average at East Clinton High School, where he ranks first in a class of 134. He chalked up straight A's in his fall quarter college classes.

Jeff also plays baritone horn in the band, serves as a video tape technician for teachers in Sabina, East Clinton, and New Vienna, and has done the lighting work for many of East Clinton's drama productions.

Then there are memberships in National Honor Society, French Club, Science Club, and Chess Club. Jeff bowls in his high school's league, sporting a 127 average

How does he do it all? In his quiet way, Jeff explains that he attends college classes in the mornings and evenings, sandwiching in his classes and other activities at East Clinton in the afternoons.

"I study between classes or at night," he explained.

And often when he's not studying, he's helping others with course work at Southern State. The college has a tutorial program for students needing help with their studies, coordinated by Mrs. Cindy Abell, director of the Franklin Learning Center on Southern State's north campus in Wilmington. When Southern State College students were invited to sign up as tutors for

subjects they excel in, Jeff volunteered to tutor students in science and math

Southern State also offers adult basic education at the learning center, for adults pursuing a high school diploma. When the regular science instructor wasn't able to make it to class one night, Mrs. Abell asked Jeff to substitute. He enjoyed the experience and continues to tutor ABE students on Monday and Wednesday evenings.

"He's very eager to help others arn," Mrs. Abell said. "We're pleased to have Jeff tutoring at the learning center. His broad knowledge and keen interest are an inspiration to all students.

Though enrolled through Southern State, Jeff takes his classes at Wilmington College, through a special agreement between the two institutions. The agreement, called the " Third Dimension," allows Southern State College students at the north campus in Wilmington to enroll in their general education (liberal arts) courses at Wilmington College.

Jeff says he's enjoyed his college experience, finding more freedom than in high school coupled with the need to work harder on his own.

'The professors have been very helpful," Jeff said, adding that he was readily accepted by the other students. Greg Cady, a guidance counselor at East Clinton High School, originally suggested that Jeff apply for early admission to college. Cady said he recommends early college enrollment to any senior at East Clinton who is qualified academically and interested in attending college.

High school seniors may apply to Southern State College for early admission with the approval of their high school principal and the Southern State campus dean. Cady said he believes the Southern State-Wilmington early admissions option is a great opportunity for area high school seniors because it gives them a head start on college and eases their adjustment to the demands of the freshman year.

Besides his interests in math and science, Jeff also tries his hand at woodworking. So far he's produced a deacon's bench, a glass fronted bookcase, and several lamps. Woodworking

Temperatures will continue cold Friday, with snow flurries over much of the state and highs in the 20s north to mid 30s along the Ohio River.

A winter storm watch was in effect today for central Ohio.

A narrow band of light snow, freezing rain and occasional sleet, created icy conditions on an east-west line through the central part of Ohio. Rain also was forecast for southern Ohio, possibly beginning as freezing rain.

Snow was forecast over northern Ohio, possibly mixed with freezing rain or sleet as temperatures rose. Highs today were to be in the upper 20s north, mid 30s central, and 40s south.

churches in and around Fayette County and as far away as northern Michigan and Louisiana, Mrs. Doris Diffendal was guest speaker, at the February meeting of the Browning Club, in the home of Mrs. E.F. Boberg, 1360 Nelson Place. She set forth with pictures and stories the religious aspect of American community life dating from 1797, when one of the oldest churches in the Northwest Territory, the first Methodist Church in Ohio, was built in Milford, near Cincinnati, to the present time, bearing out the club quotation for the month, by the poet Robert Browning: "Love, Hope, Fear, Faith these make humanity; These are its signs, and note and character.'

The program was spiced with many historical anecdotes by the speaker and by members present, who had been invited to contribute information. Two other guests of special help were Mrs. Clarence Hackett, who has written a book on the history of Washington C.H. churches, and is preparing a history of Fayette County churches, and Mrs. Walter Thompson, a specialist in genealogy and Fayette County traditions

The earliest church to be built in the county was a Quaker church in New Martinsburg in 1809. The city congregation dating back the farthest is the First Presbyterian Church, organized in 1813. The largest church bell encountered by Mrs. Diffendal sits in the yard of First Baptist Church in Bloomingburg. It was remarked that there are now only two churches in

The historic Presbyterian Church in South Salem was said to excel in the number of missionaries and ministers going out from its congregation.

One rural church, in its early days when the congregation met in schools and down by a little run, was called 'The Tadpole Church' because of the frog chorus nearby. The smallest church was a Chapel of the Madonna, in Louisiana which had only an altar, hanging lights, and five chairs.

Some of the churches pictured have disappeared and others, such as the Mr. Olive Church, have been preserved and restored. The contrasting style of architecture among all the churches, old and new were especially in-

Mrs. Diffendal called attention to the preponderance of congregations who have found it possible to improve and enlarge their buildings in recent years, thus inspiring optimism for their future

The club president, Mrs. P.M. Cook, expressed appreciation for religious heritage in Ohio, and for the fine presentation. She also paid tribute to the memory of the late librarian Miss Elizabeth Johnson, who inspired among her fellow librarians, efforts to preserve the cultural history of Fayette

During the social hour the group enjoyed refreshments. Mrs. Ralph Scott, Mrs. Joseph O'Brien, and Mrs. William Lovell assisted Mrs. Broberg.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN DEAR ABBY: I wonder how many people have my problem. I have suffered a 75 per cent hearing loss. You wouldn't believe the amount of money I have spent on hearing aids and therapy. All were useless because my loss is due to nerve damage, which can't be helped.

Abby, everyone shows so much kindness and compassion for a blind or crippled person, but if you happen to be hard of hearing, you are on your own! If I ask people to please repeat what they've said, they either turn away and ignore me, or say, "Oh, forget it," or Never mind." Believe me, there is no

DEAF AND DISCOURAGED

DEAR ABBY: Concerning the elderly Florida couple who were 'shacking up'': There is nothing imafter Jesus was born IRVING B.

DEAR IRVING: According to Jewish customs of Biblical times, Joseph and Mary were "betrothed"-a commitment so binding that if Joseph were to die before taking Mary under his own roof. Mary would become a widow. Or if Joseph backed out, he and Mary would require a legal divorce.

Although Mary and Joseph indeed shared one house, according to Matthew 1:25, "He did not know her (have sexual relations) until she brought forth her first-born son." This means that even though Joseph and Mary lived together, they did not have relations up to the birth of Jesus.

DEAR ABBY: This is for HAD IT, who has been often fooled by married men who say they're single:

Anyone can find out the marital status of anyone else by calling the reference section of his local public library (or by going there in person) and checking the city directory

When done, title to the grain is transferred by the farmer to the grain elevator and a delayed price agreement is entered into. Policemen face trial

CINCINNATI (AP)—Four suspended Cincinnati police will go on trial April 12 on charges of tampering with evidence, obstructing justice, bribery and soliciting improper compensation.

Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Judge William S. Mathews set the date over objections from Assistant Prosecutor Fred Cartolano and the attorney for the four defendants.

Cartolano objected on grounds that many of the six indictments involving suspended Police Chief Carl Goodin are 'intertwined' and he would prefer to try one involving Goodin first.

Albert Mechley, who is representing the four policemen, told the judge he was hopeful the trial could be held sooner to relieve his clients of the 'mental anguish and suffering' they are undergoing.

'Dear teacher, dear class'

By LEWIS PARRETT City Elementary Coordinator Mrs. Ramona Miller and her class of 29 first graders at Eastside Elementary School are this week's featured teacher and class. Mrs. Miller was born in Stoutsville, Ohio in Fairfield County and moved to Amanda when she was 13 years old. She attended Amanda High School and upon graduation entered Ohio University. Here she received her bachelor of science degree in kindergarten, primary, and elementary education. She is presently working toward a master's degree from Miami University. While at Ohio University, she earned a "Flying O" by participating in women's athletics. She also served her school as a senior counselor.

This marks the fifteenth year for Mrs. Miller in the Washington C.H. City School System - one year at Belle Aire Elementary School in kindergarten, one year at Belle Aire in the first grade, and thirteen years at Eastside Elementary School in the first grade. Prior to coming to Washington C.H., she taught three years at Liberty Union in Baltimore, Ohio; one full year in Lancaster and ten years as a substitute in both Lancaster and Findlay.

products are readily available, and transshipped Taiwan businessmen who have been designated as purchasing agents by the Nationalist government. The agents are reluctant to discuss their transactions except to regard themselves simply as middlemen in a business.

"I'm only buying what the govern-ment of the Republic of China asks me to buy and I don't ask any questions,' explained one agent who's been in business for 10 years.

Statistics compiled by the Hong Kong government's Department of Commerce and Industry - DCI - show that in the first nine months of 1975 a total of the equivalent of $17.1 million worth of mainland Chinese goods were shipped to Taiwan. This was 8.6 per cent more than for a similar period in 1974.

Statistics for the whole of last year's exports were incomplete but Hong Kong officials said they are expected to be about 14 per cent more than the 1974 total of $21.1 million.

There are no official records of mainland China ever having imported any goods made in Taiwan. But Hong Kong businessmen suspect there may have been isolated and small purchases of some items.

Reports from Taiwan say all mainland Chinese imports ave to be approved by the Economic Ministry's board of foreign trade and only items not readily available in Taiwan are permitted entry.

Community Ed report

By HANK SHAFFER

Program Director In the past few weeks we have started out the article with some background material on Community Education.

This week's feature will concern the financing of Community Education. Community Education is funded through the donations of individuals, businesses, clubs and foundations. The only tax dollars used for the operation of the program have been the in-kind donations of the Washington City Schools (lights and office space) and a contractual agreement with the city of Washington to operate their summer recreation program.

The concept of Community Education is economical. There are at least six good reasons:

Present community activities are broadened to involve more people, and new activities are developed to meet interests not currently being met.

The time of community and school leaders is saved for use on other important tasks when community activities are coordinated by the Community Education director;

Duplication of programming by various community organizations and agencies is eliminated:

The construction of new facilities can be minimized when the community makes greater use of existing facilities

Other facilities within the community can be put to greater use; and Money freed in the ways mentioned above may be used to develop new community programs or broaden existing ones.

Community Education is using these as a basis for better using the resources our community has. The best example is the use of the Middle School for our classes that started this week. More than 200 will be participating in the classes we are offering.

Another way is the help Community Education is giving the Elks Lodge 129 with their "hoop shoot" that will continue this week. This week will be for those youngsters 12 and 13 years old. They will be able to participate at the Middle School gym on Saturday at 9 a.m. There is no charge to participate. Last week's winners in the 10-11 category that will advance to the finals February 14 were: Girls from Rose Avenue-Tammy McDaniel and Mary Watson; Boys from Rose Avenue-Tim Redman, David Helsel and Tony Nance: Boys from Belle Aire-Bryon Dunn, Craig Jones, and Glidden Sparkman; and Andy Merriman from

Man held in triple slaying

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Police say Donald Luft, 25, murdered his father, mother and sister during a family argument early Wednesday, stuffed their bodies into the trunk of his mother's car and abandoned the auto at the Columbus airport parking lot.

The young man was charged with three counts of aggravated murder in the shooting deaths of Walter Luft, 58; Dorthy Luft, 53, and Sherry, 22.

Detectives found the bodies in the trunk of the parked car after Donald Luft directed officers to the scene, according to police Sgt. Ralph Arnett.

Police said the shootings occurred in the kitchen, living room and a second-floor bedroom of the family home on

Columbus' far east side early Wednesday morning.

Each victim had been shot several times with a .38-caliber handgun.

Detectives said no motive had been established for the shootings, but added they apparently occurred during a family argument.

Police went to the Luft home after being called by the principal of a suburban Whitehall school where Mrs. Luft taught kindergarten. The principal became concerned when Mrs. Luft did not show up at school.

Sherry Luft was a first grade teacher in another Whitehall school

Walter Luft was a retired landscape architect for the Columbus Parks and Recreation Department

4-H club roundup

By JEANIE ANDERSON Program Assistant

Want to take a new and different 4-H project this year? Then why not enroll in one of the 4-H automotive projects offered.

Driving a car entails more than just getting behind the wheel. Take for instance, road map reading and trip planning, are you sure that you know how to read a road map? It's something all licensed drivers should master. It's also something you can easily teach even youngest 4-H'ers, who often dream of their first day behind the wheel. Learning to read road maps young, 4-H'ers will find the skill invaluable throughout their lives. Plus, they'll be able to practice those skills even before they drive, perhaps as 'navigators' on family or 4-H group located, learning to read a road map can be fun, and an interesting club activity. Here are some guidelines you might use in setting up a meeting or two on map reading.

How do you check whether a map or atlas is current? Look for recent road construction, a rerouted highway, a section of expressway opened to traffic a year or more ago, or some other detail in an area you're familiar with. If it isn't shown, you can't rely upon any other information on the map, since there could be more highway construction changes in other routes you're not familiar with - changes that could frustrate you and waste your time and gasoline as you come across them unexpectedly.

Once you get an up-to-date map, study its legend thoroughly. It explains all the map's markings and symbols. It generally clues you to more than 40 different types of roads from expressways to country roads leading to springs and wells. These are marked by lines and symbols, which you'll understand only if you study the legend. And the legend, or special notes along map routes, generally will indicate parks, playgrounds, restrooms and special points of interest you might want to explore.

Turn down bail bid

CINCINNATI (AP)-The 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has denied an emergency motion for bail pending appeal for a key witness in the investigation into the disappearance of Teamsters leader James R. Hoffa.

The appellate court Tuesday cited a failure to follow judicial procedure as its reason for denying bail for Stephen Andretta, a business agent for Teamsters Local 560 in Union City, N.J. Andretta was held in contempt of

The Department of Rehabilitation and Corrections said another 123 inmates had drug-related sentences reduced, although they still have time

Still more releases and sentence reductions are expected, said Joe Ashley, department spokesman. The department has notified some 1,200 inmates they may be eligible for a sentence modification because of the state's new drug law.

For some of those, however, it would be merely a technical reduction. It would not mean an early release if they are serving a concurrent prison term on some other type of conviction carrying a longer sentence.

of Ohio's new drug code went into ef-

the effective date. Initially, there was some confusion whether the department itself could reduce the sentence and release prisoners. An attorney general's interpretation of the law, however, stipulated that only the courts could change the sentence The department's obligation was to advise inmates of the statute change and provide forms and, if necessary, legal assistance in filing them. Ashley said the 1,200 inmates were notified last November and most were able to fill out the forms without trouble

"The forms were not that difficult," he said. "But if a guy was not that capable, then there was some assistance given.

Courts apparently have not finished acting on the petitions yet, he said.

The retroactive sentencing provision in the law does not affect those who would have received harsher sentences under the new drug code.

The new law provides stiffer mandatory sentences for persons convicted of dealing in hard drugs such as heroin

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) - Salaried personnel at Mansfield Tire and Rubber Co. have taken a 5 to 10 per cent cut in pay at the plant, said John Jordan, vice president for industrial relations. Officers of the firm have taken 10 per cent cuts, he said.

Letters from readers of The Record-Herald

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

Shades of King George! Remember reading about the Kings effort, about two hundred years ago, to impose taxes upon the colonies without representation? He didn't get along so well then,

RAY KILEY DISPERSAL 81 BEEF COWS 3 BULLS MONDAY. FEBRUARY 9, 1976

but if he were here to make the same effort today he would get along much better. Heres why; he would have the example of the Ohio Supreme Court and our State Board of Tax Appeals to guide him. This whole absurd and unconcionable tax situation arose from a decision for the State Supreme Court saying that the Ohio Constitution required all real property to be taxed at a uniform rate. The ball was then handed to BTA which ruled that it should be taxed at 35 per cent of its real or true market value. By state law our real property must be reappraised every six years and updated annually in each of the intervening five years. This whole process has resulted in grotesquely inflated tax burdens on real property - and all with no vote by the people. Do you now see what I meant when I said King George could get some pointers from the Supreme Court and BTA? Pure unadulterated taxation without representation. Recently Gov. Rhodes asked the BTA to freeze the property valuations for taxation purposes at their Jan. 1, 1975 levels. I find some folks in Fayette County are misunderstanding the implications of this ruling as far as our county is concerned

This ruling, which is only a temporary stop-gap measure until legislation can be implemented, does not mean our appraised values for taxation purposes will be what they were Jan. 1, 1975 before and irregarsexennial reapour praisal which has been the subject of so much conversation

It does mean that our reappraisal will be completed as planned all along and these absurdly inflated "true market values" will be determined. Since our reappraisal will be completed in 1976, these values will then be scaled back to the Jan. 1, 1975 level. If you hoped for it to be otherwise, you were only engaging in wishful thinking.

the Supreme Court and the BTA.

Well, we now see to what extent these groups or agencies have helped us. I predict you haven't seen anything yet. The legislature is apparently coming to the realization as to what a monsterous thing has been saddled on the owners of real property, so they are now getting into the act. Based on the suggestions I am beginning to hear from men of presumed influence and judgment, I can see where the entire tax structure could be made a sham-

I do hope to give you more details and a couple of suggestions. These will be entirely too simple for the men on the state level to even consider - perhaps.

If the Editor will be generous and considerate to the same extent he has in the past, I will make this the subject of another letter.

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

The big question is the city budget cut. It's my personal view to not cut the police and fire or any city service. There are ways to do this I believe.

If we recall 1971 there was meeting after meeting held on the same problem. I remember because at that time I was president of the Fraternal Order of Police Association. At that time I believe that the people of the city of Washington C. H. would have and still will accept a one half per cent city

I would like to say this to the city of Washington C. H. in the bicentennial year 1976 and the birthday of are (our) country. I am happy to say that we are free people of the world and freedom of speech, so I say this to you, we don't need ballots, etc. There are costs to us in this, and you talk about cutting costs. So I say this, we the city of Washington C. H. should agree on a one half per cent city income tax and we should do this: write a card or letter to:

Chairman of the City Council, City of Washington C. H., N. Fayette St. Washington C. H., Ohio, 43160. State if we agree by "yes" or disagree by "no."

We ask the chairman and council to appoint a committee as follows: One member of the police department and one member from the fire department, and also one member of the street service, and three persons from the city of Washington C. H. to count the answers. There will be no cost to us to get the answers. I will volunteer for

I don't want my home robbed or burned to the ground and no clean city streets, etc. We talk of street lights, etc. Do you want your children and senior citizens on dark streets? Who do these

Baseball's option clause ruling favors players

By FRED ROTHENBERG AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Will baseball's owners, with two strikes against them. come out swinging? Or will they will give up their turn at bat so the real game can begin?

That's the predicament in which the sports finds itself today after the second of two umpires turned thumbs down on the owners and their interpretation of baseball's historic option

On Wednesday in Kansas City, Judge John W. Oliver of U.S. District Cout upheld the Dec. 23 ruling by arbitrator Peter Seitz that pitchers Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally were free agents because they had played one year beyond their contractual commitments

Seitz' ruling, which the owners sought unsuccessfully to overturn, struck down the ancient interpretation of the option clause that had kept a player with one team as long as that team desired. The new interpretation, which the owners insist would destroy

The owners swung and missed against Seitz and didn't connect with Oliver, but another swing — an appeal of Oliver's decision — could jeopardize the 1976 baseball season.

The labor contract between the owners and the Major League Baseball Players Association expired Dec. 31. Negotiations have been under way but fruitless. The union says that the sides will get no closer to an agreement if the owners continue taking their case to court. The owners, meanwhile, have threatened a delay in spring training if there is no signed agreement by then.

"I don't like the idea of them constantly running to court," said Marvin them.

'What we have here is a labor relations problem and it can only be solved in one way - at the bargaining table," Miller said. "We have to negotiate a change.

Miller said the owners are listening to the advice of their lawyers who are not versed in labor relations and have steered a steady course in the direction of the courts.

John J. Gaherin, the owners' bargaining agent and their principal labor relations expert, says his preference is for a negotiated settlement but the owners have the right to take every legal avenue open to

Radio executive Lester Smith and American League President Lee MacPhail hold a press conference today to reveal details of the agreement to operate an expansion the deal. First, the league wants to be franchise here in 1977.

The league was represented here by the ill-fated Seattle Pilots during the 1969 season. The Pilots went bankrupt and were sold to Milwaukee interests, touching off a bitter legal dispute that expansion now is designed to quell.

Two conditions have been placed on sure that a satisfactory lease is signed for occupancy of the King County Domed Stadium, a $60 million structure conceived as a home for the Pilots and now nearing completion.

Goalie injury helps Rangers

'I thought it would give the team a lift, but I didn't plan on using him," was Coach John Ferguson's explanation for suiting up rusty John Davidson up as New York Rangers' back-up goaltender Wednesday night.

But Ferguson's plans went awry when starter Dunc Wilson suffered an injured thumb during a second-period brawl and exactly one month after suffering a broken leg, Davidson was pressed into action. That gave New ork a lift, all right ... the New York

THERE'S GOT TO BE A MORNING AFTER - And for the James Kirk family of 908 Lincoln Drive, by the grace of God, there was. The photo on the left is a silhouette of Washington C.H. firemen as they battled a blaze which

totally consumed the Kirk home and resulted in the injury of eight persons, four of which were firemen. The blaze was the result of a gas explosion which occured at 6:36 p.m. Wednesday while the Kirks and a Dayton Power and Light

Co. worker were searching for the gas leak in the Kirk basement. Dale Dawes, a Dayton Power and Light Co. repairman, was critically burned. The photo on the right shows how the scene looked the following morning. The

The person sustaining the greatest injury was Dale Dawes, 45, Rt. 1, Washington C. H., who is listed in "critical" condition at Mercy Hospital in Columbus with second and third degree burns of the arms, hands, face, neck, head and back.

Dawes, a Dayton Power and Light Co. employe, was in the basement of the Kirk residence with Kirk, 35, his wife Edith, 34, and daughter, Tammy, 13, checking a gas leak. The Kirks were admitted to Fayette County Memorial Hospital and are in 'satisfactory' condition.

As is normally done when light, hard to detect leak, an air compressor was hooked up to the line to increase the leak for easier detection. When the compressor was plugged in,

according to Washington C. H. firemen, a spark jumped from the electrical socket and caused the gas within the home to explode, blowing out the walls and sweeping fire throughout what was left of the structure.

Kirk ran up the basement stairs, his coat in flames. He managed to extinguish the fire on his clothing and then run back for Tammy. After getting his daughter out of the house, he returned for his wife who was already making her way up the stairs.

Dawes, who was unfamiliar with the house, finally made his way outside and was found by Washington C. H. Police Specialist Larry Walker, lying outside saying "Oh my God, help me. There are still people inside," not knowing the Kirks had escaped from the house, at this time totally engulfed in flames.

Spec. Walker and his wife had been driving in the area on Columbus Avenue at the time of the explosion. He stated the sky turned a brilliant orange color and he instructed his wife to turn down Lincoln Drive. Upon seeing the Kirk residence in flames, he radioed from the car back to police Eight persons were injured, four of headquarters requesting all available units, ambulances and fire trucks be sent to the scene.

> Spec. Walker than ran from the car to Dawes, the first person he saw. He helped him away from the fire and laid him down until help arrived.

> An unidentified man approached carrying a black bag. He announced to Spec. Walker he was a medic and Spec. Walker told him to stay with Dawes. Washington C. H. Municipal Court Judge Robert L. Simpson, who also lives on Lincoln Drive, ran over to Spec. Walker who instructed him to call an ambulance.

> Spec. Walker then ran to the Leo B. Edwards residence, 902 Lincoln Drive, next-door to the Kirk home to see if they were out of their house which had also caught fire. They were.

Two fire trucks and a number of police units and ambulances were soon at the scene. The Kirks were taken to Fayette County Memorial Hospital for treatment. Kirk suffered first and second degree burns of the face, hands, feet and knees; Mrs. Kirk suffered second and third degree burns of the face and hands and Tammy Kirk suffered second and third degree burns of the face, hands and knees. All three were admitted to the hospital and are presently reported in satisfactory condition. A second Kirk daughter, Kim, 16, was not at home at the time of

Some 21 regular and volunteer firefighters responded to the call for help and fought the blaze for five hours. Three firemen were overcome by smoke. They were Assistant Fire Chief John P. Rockhold, 31, of 4 Winnepeg Plaza; Lt. Cecil Seaman, 28, of 549 Waverly Drive; and volunteer fireman Danny Flowers, 29, of 678 Robinson Seaman and Flowers were treated at the scene with oxygen and did not go to the hospital. Rockhold was taken to Fayette County Memorial Hospital by ambulance, treated and released. A fourth fireman, Jay Smith, 32, of 903 Hinde St., sustained a puncture wound of the left knee when he kneeled on a nail. He was treated and released at Fayette County Memorial

The Kirk home was estimated at a total loss of $50,000. The Edwards home next-door incurred approximately $15,000 damage. The side of the Edwards home facing the Kirk residence was severely damaged and there was smoke and water damage throughout the house.

To complicate matters even more, firemen were alerted to a minor car fire and Washington C. H. police were called to an accident in which a car had struck an elderly pedestrian while firefighters were battling the blaze at the Kirk residence.

Gilmore proposes 24 units

Preliminary plans OKd for apartment project

Preliminary plans for a 24-unit apartment complex in the vicinity of the Washington Country Club were approved by members of the Washington C. H. City Planning Commission Wednesday night.

City planners approved the preliminary plans submitted by Jess Gilmore, of Gilmore Homes, Inc., pending sufficient recreational area be provided in the final plans.

Gilmore ditional two-bedroom apartment buildings on a 2.3-acre site on Country Club Court, which is situated near the

Washington Country Club. The proposed project will expand the number of apartments in the development off Leesburg Avenue to

177. Gilmore said. Gilmore presently owns a total of 153 apartment units situated on a 15-acre site on Wagner Court, Wagner Way, Colonial Court and Country Club Drive. Planning commission members were concerned over the amount of recreation area in the development. Since the site is less than 20 acres 2,300 square feet of play area is required.

'Considering the voter apathy here, the city's financial condition and the proposed budget cuts which will possibly affect the city's recreational facilities, I believe that if we don't get recreational areas taken care of in the subdivisions, it looks like we won't have any at all," said planning commission member Eddie Fisher. "We're (the city) lacking recreational facilities

Gilmore said the final plans for the project would contain an area for recreational facilities and that the western boundary of the development

would be more defined. An application for a minor subdivision was unanimously approved by city planning commission members. The two-lot subdivision, containing

3.77 acres, is located on Bogus Road,

Raymond G. Rittenhouse, 1392 Ohio 41-S, are situated within a three-mile limit of Washington C. H. and come under the city planning commission's jurisdiction for development.

The city's planners also approved a split in two lots (numbers 63 and 64) on Harrison Street near the Oak Street intersection. Alvin Dorn, 2732 CCC Highway-E, owns boths lots and had requested that the common boundary between the lot be altered to form two new lots. The action had been approved

Proposal endorsed by Fayette County commissioners

Five-county girls rehabilitation center being planned

By GEORGE MALEK

A girls rehabilitation center is being planned in Ross County to serve a five-county area, and the Fayette County Board of Commissioners has expressed a willingness to participate.

Officials of the Scioto-Paint Valley Mental Health Center have proposed establishing a "half-way house" for unruly and delinquent girls ages 14-17. The home would offer juvenile court judges an alternative to probation, commitment to the Ohio Youth Commission facility in Columbus and commitment to mental hospitals. According to Fayette County Juvenile Court Judge Rollo M. Marchant, there has been a sharp increase in juvenile cases involving girls in recent years. In some cases, no present means of dealing with their individual problems is currently available, and the proposed home would offer a "middle-of-the-road"

At the present time, a girl with an emotional problem can be placed on probation which offers her only intermittent guidance from an already overburdened probation officer. She can also be committed to the Ohio Youth Commission facility in Columbus which itself can be a traumatic experience. If her problem is severe, she may be committed to a state mental health facility, but this is usually not the case.

The girls group home would offer a domestic-type atmosphere with "house parents" and approximately 10 girls. Professional counseling would be available from a caseworker and an activities therapist who would be employed full-time. Each girl in the home would receive individual counseling two days per week as well as group sessions and consultations with the parents present. Assignments to the home would be made through the juvenile court or other agency and approved by the staff at the mental health center clinic. Girls would enter the home on a voluntary basis.

Girls assigned to the home would remain for a period of approximately six to nine months, depending on their individual progress

The five-county area to be served by the facility would include Fayette, Pike, Highland, Pickaway and

Although statistics from 1975 are not available from each of the counties, they disclosed an increase of nearly 40 per cent in the number of juvenile cases involving girls from 1972 to 1974. Fayette County had 40 female juvenile offenders in 1974, and Judge Marchant said the number is spiraling upward. In 1972, Fayette County had only 23 juvenile cases involving girls.

There is definitely a need for such a facility, the judge said. Under the proposal, Fayette County could send only one or two girls each year, and Judge Marchant said that a greater number could benefit from such rehabilitation

As presently outlined, the program would cost approximately $78,500 annually to operate. Another $6,000 would be needed for furniture and other goods which would not have to be replaced each year. Almost all of the money would be supplied by state and federal agencies, and no money is being sought from the Fayette County treasury

Since it is unlikely that more than 20 girls could be served each year, the cost per girl amounts to about $4,000. Although this cost is extremely high, Judge Marchant noted that anytime a group is provided professional guidance on an individual basis, the cost becomes an obstacle.

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners has recognized the need for such a facility by endorsing the project, but commissioners were careful to avoid any possible financial commitment at the present time.

The proposal will now be submitted to state and federal officials in an effort to obtain financial support.

Aid pours into stricken Latin areas

Guatemala toll tops 2,000 from massive earthquake

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (AP) - Aid poured into Guatemala today as the estimated death toll from the devastating earthquake Wednesday rose to more than 2,000.

'The 2,000 figure is conservative,' said Col. Manuel Angel Ponce, head of the Emergency Rescue Committee. We think it may be higher.

We are still receiving reports from the interior of the country. Many areas are still without communication and we just do not know how serious the damage really is.'

Officials said at least 3,000 others were injured in Guatemala.

The U.S. Embassy reported no American casualties although it was the height of the tourist season and damage in Guatemala City was heavy.

Relief officials appealed for plasma, antibiotics and other medical supplies. The government also asked for tents, food, portable electric generators and earth-moving equipment to open roads.

The earthquake struck shortly after 3 a.m. Wednesday across 2,000 miles needed.

stretching from Mexico City south through the heart of Guatemala and into Honduras and El Salvador. The epicenter was located 30 miles southwest of Guatemala City between the villages of Siguinla and Iscuintla.

Rain finally brings relief from drought in California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It got so dry even the cactus started puckering, but California is finally getting some miserable weather and everyone - well almost everyone - is thankful.

First some sprinkles of rain came up from Mexico's Baja California, leaving a light dusting of moisture to officially end Southern California's worst dry spell in 72 years.

Then what the weather people termed a "deepening upper level cold with low pressure system" brought thunderstorms, snow and freezing temperatures up and down the state

It was Los Angeles' first rain since Dec. 12 and ended the area's driest stretch since 1903-4.

By nightfall Wednesday, only .13 of an inch had fallen in downtown Los Angeles. Until that drizzle hit the dust, however, the area had seen only .59 inches since July 1 - compared with .57 inches in the century's worst local dry spell.

But the drought isn't dead yet. The total of .72 inches of precipitation is still more than seven inches less than Los Angeles' seasonal average of 8.06 in-

South Lake Tahoe was turned white from the snow and temperatures fell to 16 above, chilly for that part of the country. The snow fell at elevations as low as 1,000 feet, the National Weather Service said, and winds to 50 miles an hour prompted travelers' warnings for blowing snow in the mountains and blasting sand in the deserts.

When a thunderstorm struck Fresno, it was the first significant rainfall since "We just can't win."

November for the crop-heavy San Joaquin Valley

State officials have placed crop and livestock losses at more than $30 million and economists predicted higher food prices because of the drought which forced some counties to seek disaster aid

The unseasonable spring-like dry spell had even fooled the grapevines in California's Napa and Sonoma wine country, where growers wanting to prune the vines were surprised to see them blooming three months ahead of schedule.

Cattlemen and farmers weren't the only ones hurt by the sunny weather. At some ski resorts, rocks poked through a vanishing snowpack that was the lowest on record in the Sierra Nevada.

The storm brought up to a foot and a half of snow to some mountain areas, with another half-foot forecast for the San Diego, traditionally one of

The 90-page book, sponsored by the National Council of Organizations for Children and Youth, is based on federal Census Bureau material. It outlines how changing attitudes about women, a rising divorce rate and several years of economic uncertainty have affected the nation's 66 million children under 18. Some of the findings are:

-During 1974, about one in six children in America lived in families whose income was below the official federal poverty level, $5,038 for a family of four. This compares with about one in seven children in 1970.

-Ten million children, about one in six, were being raised by a single parent in 1974. This compares with about one in seven children four years

-Although the infant mortality rate has dropped about 25 per cent since 1960, it is still twice as high for nonwhite children as white children

A jury of seven women and five men was sworn in Wednesday and heard chief prosecutor James L. Browning Jr. describe the 21-year-old newspaper heiress as a willing and profane bandit.

Her chief defense counsel, F. Lee Bailey, in his opening statement, called the pale defendant "a prize pig" tortured by a convict self-taught in the rudiments of mind control and determined to have Miss Hearst branded an outlaw.

From the time of her Feb. 4, 1974, abduction until the bank robbery two months later, Bailey said, Miss Hearst was taunted daily by the SLA, told her family had abandoned her, that the authorities wanted her dead and that she had nowhere to go. She was mentally and sexually tortured, he said, and was ordered to participate forcefully in the bank holdup or the SLA would "blow her to bits" if she "messed up.

She became convinced that cooperation with her captors was "her only means of survival" he said. So, she rushed into the bank with the others, was introduced as a revolutionary called "Tania" and helped the SLA speed off with $10,690.

Train crash kills four persons

WAUSEON, Ohio (AP) - Railroad officials hope a crewman who leaped from the engine of a train seconds before it collided with another can help them determine what caused the crash that left four crewmen dead and himself and another crewman injured. The trains collided in a rural area about 35 miles west of Toledo early Authorities identified the dead as Eugene O. Fuller of Brooklyn, Mich.; Robert E. Green of Elkhart, Ind.; P.E. Spray, of Elkhart, Ind.; and W.H. Davis of Toledo, Ohio. The ages of the four were unavailable.

Three other crewmen, who were in the rear of the trains, escaped injury, according to Penn Central spokesman Howard Gilbert.

According to Gilbert, B.J. Fuson of Walbridge, Ohio, brakeman on the westbound train, managed to jump from the engine seconds before impact. The other injured man, D.L. Phillips, of Maumee, Ohio, conductor the east-bound train, was riding in the caboose at the time of the accident.

Phillips and Fuson were admitted to the Fulton County Health Center at Wauseon, where they were listed in fair condition early today. According to the Gilbert, the railroad operates parallel tracks at the accident site, and the trains should have passed each other safely. Gilbert said that since Fuson is the only surviving witness to the crash, authorities hope he will be able to shed some light on the accident. Local law enforcement officials said fuel from the diesel engines exploded and burned immediately after the collision. The fires and wreckage reportedly hindered recovery of the four dead crewmen.

Gilbert said one of the trains was a 70-car freight operating from Elkhart, Ind., to Selkirk, near Albany, N.Y., while the second was a 91-car freight operating from Syracuse, N.Y., to Elkhart, Ind.

Railroad officials said about 20 cars left the track. The trains were carrying general freight.

The crash occurred approximately midway between the villages Wauseon and Archbold. There were no reports of casualties

According to Gilbert, the Amtrak's Chicago-to New York train, which normally uses the tracks, was to be rerouted south through Fort Wayne, Ind., today.

Stock list falls back

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market fell back today under the pressure of profit taking and concern over interest rates.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down 2.20 at 974.42. Among issues listed on the New York Stock Exchange, price gainers were just fractionally ahead of losers.

The Dow had risen to its highest close since October 1973 on Wednesday, leading to some profit taking. Brokers noted some bearish sentiment over recent increases in short-term interest rates and the Federal Reserve's slight lowering of its target growth rate for the money supply.

AT&T was the most active issue, falling % to 54%, the trading price for a block of 127,300 shares. The company said Wednesday its calendar 1975 earnings were down after three years of growth

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks dipped .18 to 54.06. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index added .44 to 98.76. Big Board volume totaled 15.67

faces grand jury probe

WASHINGTON (AP) - Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said today that the commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service and other top officials of the agency will appear before a grand jury next week on an unspecified matter growing out of allegations against the tax-collection agency.

fered no specifics on what topics are under consideration by the federal grand jury, which he said is sitting already in Washington.

IRS Commissioner Donald C. Alexander has been the target recently of allegations that he hampered investigations into the use of Bahamian banks for tax avoidance and provided favored treatment to members of Congress with various responsibilities over the agency or the tax code.

Simon noted that Treasury investigations of the allegations already have been launched, and he said the results have been shared with congressional committees and the Justice Department.

Among the Treasury investigations which have been disclosed so far is one involving allegations that Alexander had blocked tax audits and investigations of Sen. Joseph M. Montoya. The New Mexico Democrat heads the subcommittee which oversees the IRS budget. Both the IRS and Montoya have denied that he received any special

The Washington Post and columnist Jack Anderson also have said that Rep. Ullman, D-Ore., received preferential treatment when his 1974 tax return was audited. Again, IRS and the congressman involved denied any special favors.

Alexander came under fire last September for the suspension of the 'Project Haven' investigation into the use of Bahamian banks to shield income from U.S. taxes. Alexander contended that suspension of the project, which has now been lifted, was to determine whether evidence in any of the cases had been tainted by questionable methods of acquiring the documents.

Firemen give pay proposal

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) - Firemen submitted a pay proposal Wednesday to the mayor that would raise individual salaries by $1,500 a man.

Kelson Dearth, chairman of the negotiating committee for the Fire Fighters Local 266, delivered the contract requests to the mayor. Besides the pay hike, firemen are also seeking a cost-of-living increase. They want dental and optical care added to the current hospitalization plan at 100 per cent cost to the city. Firemen, after a one-year probationary period, receive $10,962.

NEW YORK (AP) - Question: If a wealthy fan of a presidential candidate buys air time to tout his man - but his man hasn't authorized it - can the opposition demand equal air time from the radio or TV stations involved?

Answer from the Federal Communications Commission: We don't

The question never has come up for a ruling, the FCC says. But it may, due to the recent Supreme Court overhaul of federal election finance rules which could pave the way for a big broadcast blitz on behalf of a candidate, with no spending limits on those paying for it. The court left as is the current $1,000 limit any individual can contribute to a candidate's election each year.

But it held that individuals or groups can spend — as opposed to contribute without limit to promote their man, as long as he or his campaign troops haven't authorized it or discussed the If any such prearrangement in this

outside spending is proved, the spending is considered a contribution subject to limit, if not politically embarrassing cries of illegality from the

But if they obey the law, there's nothing to prevent individuals or groups from running a massive, costly wildcat campaign on the air when their candidate and his committees say they didn't authorize it.

The FCC says it has no limits on how much can be spent for political advertising on radio and television. It says when a legally qualified presidential candidate buys air time to speak his piece, the broadcaster must give the opposition a similar opportunity

But what about equal time for opponents of a candidate who, although he hasn't authorized it, is praised in a broadcast ad for which air time was bought by an independent, unofficial group of supporters?

"Well, you have raised a question the commission has never had to decide," an FCC spokesman said.

Those who hate political advertising on radio and TV can relax for the time being. ABC, CBS and NBC say no one has yet approached them to buy air time for an unauthorized-by-the-candidate campaign. However, it may money intended for the auto testing happen to local stations during primary project may have been diverted.

What are the chances of such wildcat campaigns on the air this year?

"Well, there's always the possibility that somebody's going to do it on a small scale," says Herbert Alexander, an authority on campaign finance laws and director of the Citizens Research Foundation, which studies political campaign spending

Whether it would even involve the broadcast media or very much money is very hard to predict," he said.

'Well, I think it's more likely that that kind of independent spending is more likely to take place in the print media than in broadcasting.

"The reason is, you occasionally see a full page newspaper ad that says, 'This is why I'm supporting candidate X.' But you don't often hear television radio spots saying the same thing. And so I don't think it's likely to affect the broadcast media as much as it would the print media.'

Mead reports good earnings

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) - Mead Corp. said it achieved its second best earnings in history with net profits for 1975 of $52.8 million, or $3.07 per common share. That was second to 1974 when the company recorded record net earnings of nearly $82 million, or $4.90 per common share.

The manufacturer of paper and related products, school and office supplies, precision castings and furniture, posted sales of $1.245 billion in 1975, compared to $1.526 billion in 1974.

Testing center funding sought

WASHINGTON (AP) - U. S Rep. Clarence Brown, R-Springfield, has asked U.S. transportation Secretary William Coleman to explain why the projected 1977 federal budget doesn't include a $13.5 million auto testing center for Ohio.

In a letter to Coleman, Brown noted the project had been promised for the Ohio Transportation Research Center near Bellefontaine.

France revives flagging lottery

state lotteries are running into trouble, France's weekly flutter is going from strength to strength and a new gambling game is to be introduced this year.

"We felt there was a hole in our gambling structure that needed to be filled" said Claude Blondin, assistant lotteries director, "so we decided upon the Loto.

The game is simple, but the bettor can complicate it if he wishes. Basically the aim is to pick six numbers, between one and 49, to match a random selection of numbered balls drawn from a whirling tumbler by lottery officials.

Players can combine various selections of six numbers to increase their chances of getting all six correct chances, Blondin says, which are statistically very small.

But if anyone hits all six he will get a colossal payoff for his basic bet of two to three francs (34 to 51 U.S. cents) for two sets of six numbers," Blondin adds. Three out of six numbers will pay off six to eight times the bet, but no figures can be estimated until the Loto starts.

The game will begin in the greater Paris region in spring, and Blondin hopes it will be nationwide within two

The administration's faith in the gambling instincts of the French is reflected in the fact that the Loto will need a series of regional data processing centers for its operations. Entry forms will be read by computers which will then check winning entries and determine the payout.

France's regular lottery, founded in its present form 43 years ago, has itself taken on new life in the past two years, Bloindin said.

'We were stagnant in current franc

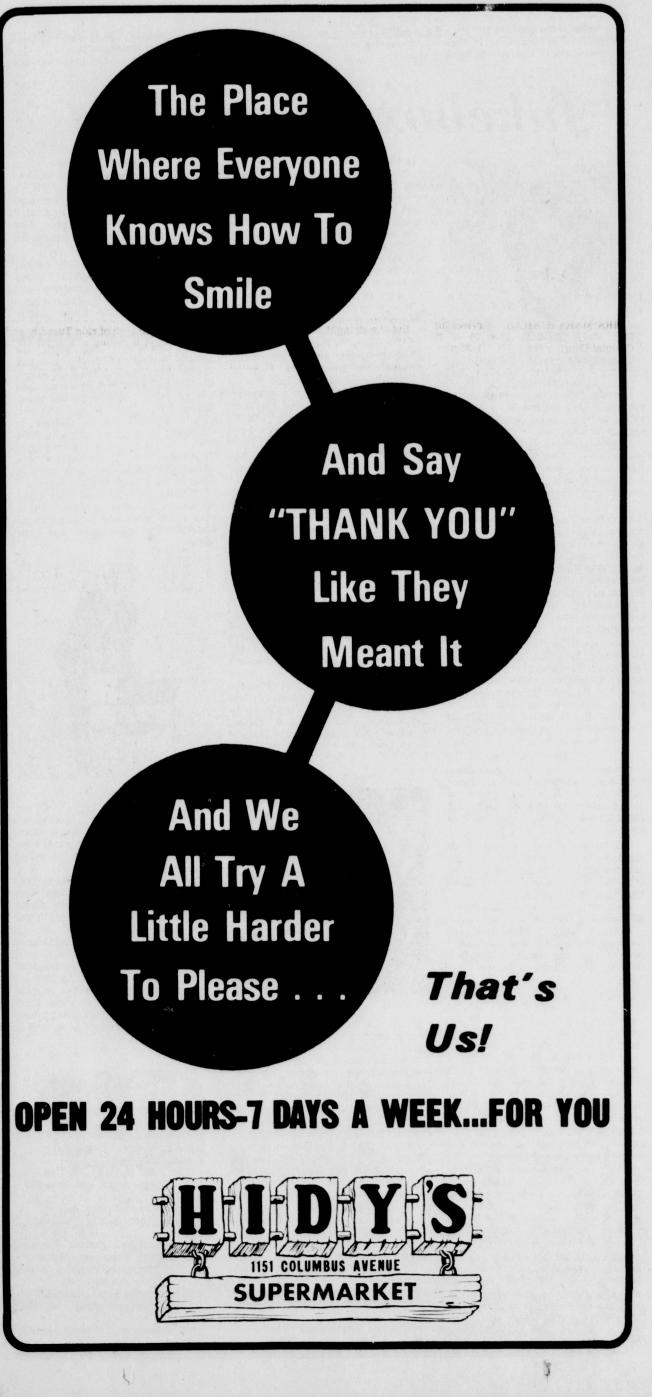

PARIS (AP) - While many U.S. takings - which meant we were going steadily downhill in real terms — until we really started to push to 'rejuvenate the image' of the lottery," he said.

> Ticket sales have been rising very considerably since then, even in real terms, and the most significant change has been that players are buying whole tickets instead of the one-tenth

That usually means an investment of 50 francs ($11) instead of five francs (1.10), but the potential return is one million francs (227,000). All lottery winning are tax free. One special drawing has a prize of 5 million francs ($1.136,000)

A sign of the times is that there will be only four 30 francs ($6.80) ticket lotteries this year, whereas tis was the base price several years ago.

Cody: artist, teacher, writer, musician...

By MARY CAMPBELL AP Newsfeatures Writer

A lot of people drift into musical groups in college and take it from there as a career. Commander Cody started that way, while he was studying sculpture and painting, but he kept on for awhile in art. Then music became the career and art the hobby.

He named the group Commander Cody and his Lost Planet Airmen while in college, trying to excite interest by novelty. They were playing good-time country-western music, mixed with rock, and trying to give it a swing so it could be danced to, at the parties and dances where they played.

He went to the University of Michigan because it was a long way from his family's home on Long Island and because he thought he'd be good at the decathlon, discovering after he got there that Big Ten schools don't have the decathlon in their sports program.

After graduation, he went to Wisconsin State at Oshkosh, Wis., to teach. "I didn't keep attendance and they were shocked. I had some proven projects for the art students like making three-dimensional designs, like balsa wood airplanes, and that was frowned on. It was 1968 and in figure drawing they wouldn't let me have a nude model. I figured, "This is not going to be my career.

"Every weekend I drove seven and a half hours to Ann Arbor to play with the band and see my friends.

Cody also went to New York to decide whether to become an artist there. He was told that he could make it if he socialized at the right parties and he decided that if he was going to be in show business, he might as well really be in show business.

The group's lead guitar player had moved to the San Francisco area from Ann Arbor and urged the rest to join him. "In June of 1969 I said all right. I cut my ties and went. My mom didn't speak to me for two years. I'd thrown away a good career.

Cody's father and brother are commercial artists and his mother is a color specialist.

A talk with Cody, whose real name is George Frayne, is a straightforward account, with amusing and unexpected asides. His road crew is experienced in carpentry so it will rebuild the inside of the bus the eight-piece band travels on. The plywood has arrived, addressed to 'Commander Cody and the Lost People of Aman.'

Cody says he likes to be called Cody or George, but not Commander, because that sounds like he was in Arriving in California, Cody stayed with various friends, slept for a time in closet and would take some old painting his hosts didn't like and paint one of his own over it, sometimes with dime store brushes, to give instead of rent. Sometimes he'd sell one. The band tried to get jobs, too.

Cody lives in a little town 35 miles from San Francisco, which stays small by being on a winding road. "I've become a bird watcher," he says. "The Bolinas Lagoon is out my back door and it has a pelican population of about 65. I never got into bird watching until I started watching them fish. They're a beautiful sight."

Commander Cody and his Lost Planet Airmen's first record contract was with Paramount, for whom they made four LP's. From the first one came their only top 10 single, "Hot Rod Lincoln," in the winter of 1972. "It sold about 900,000. It was a novelty record,

After brief parts in films with Joan Crawford and Katharine Hepburn, she took the name Fontaine on the advice of a fortune teller and starred in a series of "B" films which gave her, she feels, better training and experience than all the dramatic classes she had attended.

At a dinner party at Charles Chaplin's, Miss Fontaine sat next to a gentleman discussing literature. After saying she had just read Daphne du Maurier's "Rebecca," which she thought would make a fine film, her dinner partner introduced him-self. . David O. Selznick said he'd bought the book that week and would Miss Fontaine like to test for the role "I" de Winter? Indeed she would, and after seven tests and many disappointments she finally landed the coveted part, which had been tested for by Hollywood luminaries such as Loretta Young, Vivien Leigh, Susan Hayward and Geraldine Fitzgerald.

'Rebecca'' won the Academy Award in 1940, giving Miss Fontaine her first Academy nomination plus the New York Motion Picture Critics Award as well as the Canadian.

In her next film, "Suspicion," also directed by Alfred Hitchcock, she won the prized Oscar, while "The Constant Nymph," made the following year, her another nomination.

During her many years in Hollywood, Miss Fontaine made over 45 films. As well as those already mentioned, the best known are "The Women," "Jane Eyre," "This Above All," "Island In the Sun," "Tender Is the Night" and "September Affair." DOBIE GRAY

Just about the time you think you've got Dobie Gray pegged into a musical niche, he rears back, busts out, and springs forward. In the mid-sixties, Dobie was the one person who managed to encapsulate those terrible teen longings and peer ambitions in song: "I'm in with the incrowd; I go where the in-crowd goes

Then in the early seventies, amidst some magical albums that sadly were overlooked in the madness of the record industry, Dobie Gray struck again. This time giving us what may well be remembered as a classic piece of rock, perhaps the quintessential song on the subject: "Give me the beat boys and free my soul. I want to get lost in your rock and roll

And now with help from his co-writerco-producer Troy Seals and the best of Nashville's session men and backup singers, Dobie Gray makes his debut on Capricorn Records, the Georgia-based wonderchild of the business.

Dobie calls "Drive On, Ride On" his favorite cut from the sessions, terming it a "funky little thing."

I sat with Dobie and Troy in the engineering booth of Quadrafonic Studios, a converted old home on Grand Avenue just off Music Row, as Reggie Young added some lead and slide guitar to the track of "Drive On, Ride

With Dobie and Troy cheering him on and doing a bit of demanding, yet goodnatured prodding, Reggie added some of the bitingest guitar licks that studio has heard in many a day. From time to time, Reggie would wander into the booth and drawl, "How'm I doin'?" Dobie, Troy and spectators would just exchange amazed grins and answer: "Just fine, Reggie." The album is indeed "Just Dobie Gray, a tall man with a quick sense of humor, an unsarcastic wit and warm laughing eyes strives to be the complete performer, a singer, a comedian, an actor, a showman.

During a recent tour of Australia, Dobie secured old fans and gained new believers by offering a different brand of concert. He had the good humor and the good ear for what would please the crowd when he did the Aussie favorite "Waltzing Matilda" in pantomine, fully-rigged in a costume. The crowd loved it every place he played.

"I've often wanted to do something like that,' he'll tell you, briefly mentioning that he had done some acting. That's an understatement. For almost two years, Dobie was one of the leading characters in the highly acclaimed Los Angeles production of "Hair.

Elaborating on his concept of entertaining, Dobie notes, "You can always go and hear people sing, but when people get to a show they want a performance - to be entertained. Using other people in the show and having a full orchestra is like icing on the cake.'

Dobie's music is as outgoing and It Flow" and "Juke Joint Jump", and positive as he is. Even at the end of a long day of over-dubbing and interviews and meetings, he keeps his mood pleasant, warm and always-

He appears to be delighted at joining the Capricorn family. "I think for the first time, I'm going to get the kind of personalized attention it takes to make the kind of artist I'd like to be. I think it's going to be a good association."

Brought up in rural West Texas ("We got electricity when I was eight and I saw my first movie at 14") Dobie's only exposure to music was through traveling gospel groups who would perform at his church. His formal education, like that of most of the children he grew up around and was often interrupted for farm chores. Looking back, Dobie says, "I didn't resent it because at 12 or 14, I had already decided I really wanted to be an entertainer. I didn't like school, had no use for it. That's not to discourage anyone else, of course." By 1963, Dobie was a fledgling performer, finding the breaks slow in coming. It was in 1967 that he moved further West - all the way to California (he now lives in L.A.) and by 1968, he had established himself as a musical

Ironically, his first gold record came before full-scale national attention. A single called "Look at Me" bounced from market to market, gaining hit status despite a dearth of promotion. It first broke in 1965. Within a few years, it topped the million-seller mark. That likelihood of many million-sellers looms in front of Dobie now Asked how his family feels about the prodigal son, Dobie smiles quietly and says: "They elated. They're very happy now." And judging by his attitude and his music and his positive feelings about his new label, so is Dobie 1975 was a very good year for Elvin Bishop, and the young singer-guitarist plans to celebrate America's bicentennial year with some fireworks of his own, namely his new album, "Struttin" My Stuff.

Elvin spent the latter part of 1975 shuttling back and forth between his home in San Francisco and Miami's Criteria Recording Studio, where he and his band recorded the new album.

East Clinton senior discovers formula for reaching his goal

WILMINGTON - "It keeps you

That is Jeff Aldridge's comment on the heavy and varied schedule of class and activities he's keeping during his last semester at East Clinton High School. Planning to pursue a career in physics, he seems to have found the formula for reaching his goal.

Jeff is a special early admissions student at Southern State College, Wilmington. He received approval to combine college-level basic science and English courses with classes in government and advanced chemistry at East Clinton. Recently, he received a letter of acceptance from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he will major in physics next

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Glatis Aldridge, 89 Silver Maple Court, Sabina, also participates in an array of extra-curricular activities that would seem to leave little time for studying. Yet Jeff has maintained an overall 3.9 grad point average at East Clinton High School, where he ranks first in a class of 134. He chalked up straight A's in his fall quarter college classes.

Jeff also plays baritone horn in the band, serves as a video tape technician for teachers in Sabina, East Clinton, and New Vienna, and has done the lighting work for many of East Clinton's drama productions.

Then there are memberships in National Honor Society, French Club, Science Club, and Chess Club. Jeff bowls in his high school's league, sporting a 127 average.

How does he do it all? In his quiet way, Jeff explains that he attends college classes in the mornings and evenings, sandwiching in his classes and other activities at East Clinton in the afternoons.

"I study between classes or at night," he explained.

And often when he's not studying, he's helping others with course work at Southern State. The college has a tutorial program for students needing help with their studies, coordinated by Mrs. Cindy Abell, director of the Franklin Learning Center on Southern State's north campus in Wilmington.

subjects they excel in, Jeff volunteered to tutor students in science and math

Southern State also offers adult basic education at the learning center, for adults pursuing a high school diploma. When the regular science instructor wasn't able to make it to class one night, Mrs. Abell asked Jeff to substitute. He enjoyed the experience and continues to tutor ABE students on Monday and Wednesday evenings.

"He's very eager to help others learn," Mrs. Abell said. "We're pleased to have Jeff tutoring at the learning center. His broad knowledge and keen interest are an inspiration to all students.'

Though enrolled through Southern State, Jeff takes his classes at Wilmington College, through a special agreement between the two institutions. The agreement, called the " Third Dimension," allows Southern State College students at the north campus in Wilmington to enroll in their general education (liberal arts) courses at Wilmington College.

Jeff says he's enjoyed his college experience, finding more freedom than in high school coupled with the need to work harder on his own.

"The professors have been very helpful," Jeff said, adding that he was readily accepted by the other students.

Greg Cady, a guidance counselor at East Clinton High School, originally suggested that Jeff apply for early admission to college. Cady said he recommends early college enrollment to any senior at East Clinton who is qualified academically and interested qualified academically and interested in attending college.

High school seniors may apply to Southern State College for early admission with the approval of their high school principal and the Southern State campus dean. Cady said he believes the Southern State-Wilmington early admissions option is a great op-portunity for area high school seniors because it gives them a head start on college and eases their adjustment to the demands of the freshman year.

Besides his interests in math and science, Jeff also tries his hand at woodworking. So far he's produced a When Southern State College students were invited to sign up as tutors for deacon's bench, a glass fronted book-case, and several lamps. Woodworking Showing slides of more than 100 churches in and around Fayette County and as far away as northern Michigan and Louisiana, Mrs. Doris Diffendal was guest speaker, at the February meeting of the Browning Club, in the home of Mrs. E.F. Boberg, 1360 Nelson Place. She set forth with pictures and stories the religious aspect of American community life dating from 1797, when one of the oldest churches in the Northwest Territory, the first Methodist Church in Ohio, was built in Milford, near Cincinnati, to the present time, bearing out the club quotation for the month, by the poet Robert Browning: "Love, Hope, Fear, Faith these make humanity; These are its signs, and note and character.

The program was spiced with many historical anecdotes by the speaker and by members present, who had been invited to contribute information. Two other guests of special help were Mrs. Clarence Hackett, who has written a book on the history of Washington C.H. churches, and is preparing a history of Fayette County churches, and Mrs. Walter Thompson, a specialist in genealogy and Fayette County traditions

The earliest church to be built in the county was a Quaker church in New Martinsburg in 1809. The city congregation dating back the farthest is the First Presbyterian Church, organized in 1813. The largest church bell encountered by Mrs. Diffendal sits in the yard of First Baptist Church in Bloomingburg. It was remarked that there are now only two churches in Washington C.H., First Presbyterian and St. Colman Catholic, where bells are rung on Sunday mornings.

The historic Presbyterian Church in South Salem was said to excel in the number of missionaries and ministers going out from its congregation.

One rural church, in its early days when the congregation met in schools and down by a little run, was called 'The Tadpole Church' because of the frog chorus nearby. The smallest church was a Chapel of the Madonna, in Louisiana which had only an altar, hanging lights, and five chairs.

Some of the churches pictured have disappeared and others, such as the Mr. Olive Church, have been preserved and restored. The contrasting style of architecture among all the churches, old and new were especially interesting

Mrs. Diffendal called attention to the preponderance of congregations who have found it possible to improve and enlarge their buildings in recent years, thus inspiring optimism for their future

The club president, Mrs. P.M. Cook, expressed appreciation for religious heritage in Ohio, and for the fine presentation. She also paid tribute to the memory of the late librarian Miss Elizabeth Johnson, who inspired among her fellow librarians, efforts to preserve the cultural history of Fayette

During the social hour the group enjoyed refreshments. Mrs. Ralph Scott, Mrs. Joseph O'Brien, and Mrs. William Lovell assisted Mrs. Broberg.

Marriage vows exchanged in First Presbyterian Church

A pink and blue color scheme was used, representing the birth of the New Year and a new life for Miss Glenna Kay Pettit and Mr. Steven Michael Dodds. The bride is the daughter of Mr. Glenn K. Pettit, of Washington C.H., and the late Virginia L. Pettit. Mr. Dodds is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Dodds of New Petersburg. The Rev. Gerald Wheat performed the double-ring ceremony in First Presbyterian Church at 1:30 p.m. on January the 10th, following wedding selections chosen by the bride and played by Mrs. John Case. Miss Patricia Bick, soloist, sang "A Time For Us" and "Speak Softly Love."

Two seven branch candleabra, entwined with greenery, and altar vases filled with pink snap dragons and blue and white carnations, made the, background for the lovely ceremony. Large pink satin bows with greenery decorated each pew.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white satin covered with chiffon. The fitted bodice featured an overlay of French chantilly lace which extended to the high neckline, long fitted sleeves cuffed in lace, and a flared, full-length skirt. The lace-covered head piece caught the train-length veil of bridal illusion. completely trimmed in French chantilly lace. Her only jewelry was a pair of pearl earrings, a gift of the groom. The bride's bouquet, a cascade of pink sweetheart roses, miniature white carnations, and blue baby breath, with white satin streamers, was carried on top of a white bible which had belonged to her mother. Miss Pamela Stritenberger, maid of honor, wore a powder blue, full, floorlength gown, with long fitted sleeves and a sweetheart neckline trimmed in lace. She carried a single white rose with greenery, baby breath and white satin streamers.

The bridesmaids were Miss Sharon Hodge and Miss Tania Luckhart. Their dresses were identical to the maid of honor, except for the color, which was a soft pink. They each carried a single pink rose with greenery, baby breath and pink satin streamers. All three girls wore sweetheart necklaces, which along with their gowns, were gifts of the bride. All four gowns were designed by the bride and made by Mrs. Neil

Little Miss Michaela Templin, cousin of the bride, looked lovely as the flower girl in her light blue chiffon over satin, floor-length gown, similar to the bridal gown. Tiny blue satin ribbons caught her long blond Shirley Temple curls. She carried a white wicker basket filled with pink and white roses, blue feathered carnations and baby breath with long pink and blue satin streamers. The basket contained rose petals for her to drop down the aisle.

Gary Dodds served as best man for his brother. Doug Mustard, nephew of the groom, carried the rings on a white, lace-covered, heart-shaped pillow. Seating the wedding guests were Donald Dodds Jr., brother of the groom, and Dave Daniels.

The groom's mother wore a floorlength knit gown of rose, white and black floral print. Her corsage was white sweetheart roses with a rose colored ribbon.

The bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Lillie Dowler, wore a blue and pink floor-length knit gown. Her corsage was pink sweetheart roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in Persinger Hall. The bride's table was centered with a three tier wedding cake, topped with a bride and groom and two doves. It was decorated with clusters of pink and blue flowers and white sugar bells. The punch which filled the two crystal punch bowls was topped with heart-shaped ice and assorted citrus fruit slices. Mary Scott assisted the bride with all wedding and reception plans.

Hostesses for the reception were Mrs. Joe Clyburn and Mrs. Gary Mustard, sisters of the groom, Mrs. Noah Wilson and Martha Templin. cousins of the bride. Mrs. Gary Dodds presided at the guest book and Amy Dodds assisted with wedding gifts.

The new Mrs. Steven Dodds was wearing a colorful jersey dress with scenic view print and the corsage from her bridal bouquet, for a trip to Ten-

The couple is residing in Washington C.H. until their departure for Mr. Dodds' military station. The evening preceding the wedding, a rehearsal dinner was held by the bridegroom's parents in Persinger Hall.

Dear Abby problems fall on deaf ears Reader's hearing

It was announced that ways and after Jesus was born

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN DEAR ABBY: I wonder how many people have my problem. I have suffered a 75 per cent hearing loss. You wouldn't believe the amount of money I have spent on hearing aids and therapy. All were useless because my loss is due to nerve damage, which can't be helped.

Abby, everyone shows so much kindness and compassion for a blind or crippled person, but if you happen to be hard of hearing, you are on your own! If I ask people to please repeat what they've said, they either turn away and ignore me, or say, "Oh, forget it," or "Never mind." Believe me, there is no greater insult to a deaf person.

Abby, please ask people to be a little more patient with those of us who are hard of hearing. All they need do is to speak distinctly and raise their voices just a little. Thank you.

DEAF AND DISCOURAGED DEAR DEAF: All right, here's your letter. READERS, CAN YOU HEAR ME OUT THERE?

DEAR ABBY: Concerning the elderly Florida couple who were "shacking up": There is nothing immoral about a couple living together without a so-called marriage license. Remember, Joseph and Mary lived together and were not married until

IRVING B.

DEAR IRVING: According to Jewish customs of Biblical times, Joseph and Mary were "betrothed"-a commitment so binding that if Joseph were to die before taking Mary under his own roof. Mary would become a widow. Or if Joseph backed out, he and Mary would require a legal divorce.

Although Mary and Joseph indeed shared one house, according to Matthew 1:25, "He did not know her (have sexual relations) until she brought forth her first-born son." This means that even though Joseph and Mary lived together, they did not have relations up to the birth of Jesus.

DEAR ABBY: This is for HAD IT, who has been often fooled by married men who say they're single:

Anyone can find out the marital status of anyone else by calling the reference section of his local public library (or by going there in person) and checking the city directory.

It lists the husband's name, the wife's name and their places of employment. Any city too small to have a city directory is small enough for there to be no question about its citizens' marital status, anyway.

GS enrollment set for Feb. 15through Feb.21

The annual Sustaining Membership Enrollment for the 16-county Seal of Ohio Girl Scout Council gets underway February 15 and will run through February 21. Each year volunteer enrollers call on the family of every Girl Scout throughout the Council to ask them to become Sustaining Members of the Girl Scout organization. The funds raised in this manner bridge the gap between the other sources of income, mainly United Way monies and product sale proceeds, and the amount needed to maintain and expand a quality program for all girls. This year's goal is $50,000.

The general S.M.E. chairman is Dr. Floyd L. Herum, 1580 Pemberton Dr., Columbus. He has been working with the volunteers who are planning the drive for the past several Months. Dr. Herum is professor of agricultural engineering at Ohio State University. He was also general chairman for the 1975 S.M.E. campaign.

Tax chief rules against farm plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - The state tax commissioner has determined that delayed price agreements between farmers and grain elevators are subject to the state intangibles tax.

James A. Witzel, property tax division administrator for the state tax department, said the tax commissioner issued his decision at the end of January after an administrative hear-

Gary Johnson, a farmer in Hancock County, and the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation challenged the application of the tax to the delayed agreements. Johnson has 30 days to appeal the Board of Tax Appeals. Under a delayed price agreement, a farmer delivers grain to an elevator. When done, title to the grain is transferred by the farmer to the grain elevator and a delayed price agreement is entered into. This entitles a farmer to receive payment for his grain anytime he demands it, at the prevailing market price for the grain at that time.

A bill is currently before the legislature to exempt delayed price agreements from the tax.

Policemen face trial

CINCINNATI (AP)—Four suspended Cincinnati police will go on trial April 12 on charges of tampering with evidence, obstructing justice, bribery and soliciting improper compensation. Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Judge William S. Mathews set the date over objections from Assistant Prosecutor Fred Cartolano and the attorney for the four defendants.

Cartolano objected on grounds that many of the six indictments involving suspended Police Chief Carl Goodin are "intertwined" and he would prefer to try one involving Goodin first.

Albert Mechley, who is representing the four policemen, told the judge he was hopeful the trial could be held sooner to relieve his clients of the 'mental anguish and suffering" they are undergoing.

The four policemen are Lt. Richard Beyer, Sgt. Urban Ebert and Specialists William Hawthorne and Raymond Easterling.

'Dear teacher, dear class'

By LEWIS PARRETT City Elementary Coordinator

Mrs. Ramona Miller and her class of 29 first graders at Eastside Elementary School are this week's featured teacher and class.

Mrs. Miller was born in Stoutsville, Ohio in Fairfield County and moved to Amanda when she was 13 years old. She attended Amanda High School and upon graduation entered Ohio University. Here she received her bachelor of science degree in kindergarten, primary, and elementary education. She is presently working toward a master's degree from Miami University. While at Ohio University, she earned a "Flying O" by par-ticipating in women's athletics. She also served her school as a senior counselor.

This marks the fifteenth year for Mrs. Miller in the Washington C.H. City School System - one year at Belle Aire Elementary School in kindergarten, one year at Belle Aire in the first grade, and thirteen years at Eastside Elementary School in the first grade. Prior to coming to Washington C.H., she taught three years at Liberty Union in Baltimore, Ohio; one full year in Lancaster and ten years as a substitute in both Lancaster and Findlay.

She resides at 201 River Road with her husband, Roger, an area representative for Landmark. Their two sons, Michael and Steven, work for the Ohio Bell Telephone Company, and their daughter, Denise, is enrolled at the Columbus Technical Institute.

She has many varied activities outside the classroom. She is an active worker for the Church Women United clothing center and a worker for the Reach to Recovery Program for the Cancer Society. Her hobbies include collecting bells, playing bridge, going to supper clubs and church circles, sewing, and painting. Her favorite colors are the pastel shades of pink, blue, and green. Her favorite place is Canada in the summer, and her favorite food is sea food, especially lobster.

During the summertime, she enjoys golfing, swimming, and bicycling. Some additional information about Mrs. Miller includes the fact that she helped to establish the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church; she is looking forward to becoming a first-time grandmother in July, Family plans include a future visit with their American Field Service "daughter" Debbie Symmans, in her hometown of Whakatone, New Zealand.

Her class is especially enthusiastic about using the two typewriters they have in their classroom; some have typed their names while others can type answers to questions.

During the year the class plans to learn about the flag and our country, to salute the bicentennial in a special way, and to "instill love and respect for their country," according to Mrs. Miller. Next week, the morning reading class will be working with various times would be anytime activities such as the SRA Lab, etc. In and Friday afternoons.

the afternoon, there will be numbers and SRA listening stories.

Mrs. Miller says, "Due to the new reading program at Eastside, I feel my interest in teaching has been renewed. By this program I have been able to accomplish many things that would have been impossible in a regular reading program." The class said they liked everything at school. Some chose the typewriters and Alpha Time in particular.

The host and hostess will vary during the week. Mrs. Miller and her class extend a warm welcome to everyone to come and visit her first grade. The best times would be anytime except Monday

HONG KONG (AP) - Mainland products are readily available, and transshipped to Taiwan businessmen who have been designated as purchasing agents by the Nationalist government. The agents are reluctant to discuss their transactions except to regard themselves simply as middlemen in a business.

"I'm only buying what the government of the Republic of China asks me to buy and I don't ask any questions," explained one agent who's been in business for 10 years.

Statistics compiled by the Hong Kong government's Department of Commerce and Industry - DCI - show that in the first nine months of 1975 a total of the equivalent of $17.1 million worth of mainland Chinese goods were shipped to Taiwan. This was 8.6 per cent more than for a similar period in 1974.

Statistics for the whole of last year's exports were incomplete but Hong Kong officials said they are expected to be about 14 per cent more than the 1974 total of $21.1 million.

There are no official records of mainland China ever having imported any goods made in Taiwan. But Hong Kong businessmen suspect there may have been isolated and small purchases of some items.

Reports from Taiwan say all mainland Chinese imports ave to be approved by the Economic Ministry's board of foreign trade and only items which are considered essential and are not readily available in Taiwan are permitted entry

Community Ed report

By HANK SHAFFER Program Director

In the past few weeks we have started out the article with some background material on Community Education.

This week's feature will concern the financing of Community Education. Community Education is funded through the donations of individuals, businesses, clubs and foundations. The only tax dollars used for the operation of the program have been the in-kind donations of the Washington City Schools (lights and office space) and a contractual agreement with the city of Washington to operate their summer recreation program.

The concept of Community Education is economical. There are at least six good reasons:

Present community activities are broadened to involve more people, and new activities are developed to meet interests not currently being met.

The time of community and school leaders is saved for use on other important tasks when community activities are coordinated by the Community Education director;

- Duplication of programming by various community organizations and agencies is eliminated;

- The construction of new facilities can be minimized when the community makes greater use of existing facilities:

- Other facilities within the community can be put to greater use; and - Money freed in the ways mentioned above may be used to develop new community programs or broaden

Community Education is using these as a basis for better using the resources our community has. The best example is the use of the Middle School for our classes that started this week. More than 200 will be participating in the classes we are offering.

Another way is the help Community Education is giving the Elks Lodge 129 with their "hoop shoot" that will continue this week. This week will be for those youngsters 12 and 13 years old. They will be able to participate at the Middle School gym on Saturday at 9 a.m. There is no charge to participate. Last week's winners in the 10-11 category that will advance to the finals February 14 were: Girls from Rose Avenue-Tammy McDaniel and Mary Watson; Boys from Rose Avenue-Tim Redman, David Helsel and Tony Nance; Boys from Belle Aire-Bryon Dunn, Craig Jones, and Glidden Sparkman; and Andy Merriman from day" program.

Some two months of work went into the one-day program for Bloomingburg students. Mrs. Portia Cunningham chaired the committee responsible for contacting persons throughout the Fayette County area to tap their hobbies and professions for the program. Thirty persons responded and were told if any expenses were incurred the Bloomingburg Parent-Teacher Organization would promptly reimburse them

Members of the Parent-Teacher Organization raised $200 for the event with the attitude "it was about time the money was spent directly on the pupil's minds instead of just giving them new curtains to look at or some other building dressing," according to Mrs. Jean McCoy, who served on the committee.

The subjects taught by the persons in community who made Bloomingburg's living arts day program a success were:

First and second grade - finger painting by Karen Cook, square dancing by Carl Wilt, oriental paperfolding by Sue Hung, dental care by Dr. Ronald Walker: Fifth through eighth grades movies by Bob Chaney and Steve Paisley; home sewing by Analee Belt, wildlife by Jerry Cremeans and Phil French, scuba diving by Cecil Seaman, microwave oven cooking by Patti Briggs, cake decorating by Irene Grim, Margit Wilson and Louise Wilson, photography by Charles Pensyl and Mark Thellmann, dog grooming by Beverly Burnett and Hazel Wilt, furs and the tanning of hides by Corky Wilt, ham radio operation by Jerry Ragland, artificial respiration by Debbie Bliss, flower arranging by Marty Welsh, square dancing by Carl Wilt, art by Phyllis Lehman, needlepoint keychains by Jayne Lange, macrame by Donna Autry and Linda Downing, bicycle safety and maintainence by French's Bicycle Shop, fossils and rocks by Carolyn Fryer and Kathleen Scott, crewel embroidery by Marian Moore, String art by Joyce Waterman, can-Linda Chesnut, dlemaking by cosmetology by Joann Forsythe and Steen's Department store, electricity by Bob Engle and karate by Al

Other persons who served on the living arts day committee and those who helped coordinate the program were Jean McCoy, Lolly Overly, Sue Heiterman, Lavonne Melvin, Ellen Delay, Sue Hung, Mrs. Scott Smith and Levan's secretary, Ruth Stayrook

Prisoners freed by new drug law prison system released 80 prisoners through the end of January because of new, more lenient sentences for some drug offenses, officials say

The Department of Rehabilitation and Corrections said another 123 inmates had drug-related sentences reduced, although they still have time

Still more releases and sentence reductions are expected, said Joe Ashley, department spokesman. The department has notified some 1,200 inmates they may be eligible for a sentence modification because of the state's new drug law.

For some of those, however, it would be merely a technical reduction. It would not mean an early release if they are serving a concurrent prison term on some other type of conviction carrying a longer sentence

A new venture ahead? Don't forget that the advance planning and first moves are vitally important. Don't let "tradition" keep you from trying a new approach.

The sentence-reduction program has been in effect since Nov. 21, when part of Ohio's new drug code went into effect. It reduced penalties for casual use of drugs such as marijuana. The law specified the sentences would apply retroactively to those who would have received lesser sentences if their crimes had been committed after the effective date. Initially, there was some confusion whether the department itself could reduce the sentence and release prisoners. An attorney general's interpretation of the law, however, stipulated that only the courts could change the sentence.

The department's obligation was to advise inmates of the statute change and provide forms and, if necessary, legal assistance in filing them.

Ashley said the 1,200 inmates were notified last November and most were able to fill out the forms without

"The forms were not that difficult," he said. "But if a guy was not that capable, then there was some assistance given.

Courts apparently have not finished acting on the petitions yet, he said.

The retroactive sentencing provision in the law does not affect those who would have received harsher sentences under the new drug code. The new law provides stiffer mandatory sentences for persons convicted of dealing in hard drugs such as heroin or cocaine.

Shades of King George! Remember reading about the Kings effort, about two hundred years ago, to impose taxes upon the colonies without representation? He didn't get along so well then, but if he were here to make the same There is no escape from the edicts of effort today he would get along much better. Heres why; he would have the example of the Ohio Supreme Court and our State Board of Tax Appeals to guide him.

This whole absurd and unconcionable tax situation arose from a decision for the State Supreme Court saying that the Ohio Constitution required all real property to be taxed at a uniform rate. The ball was then handed to BTA which ruled that it should be taxed at 35 per cent of its real or true market value. By state law our real property must be reappraised every six years and updated annually in each of the intervening five years.

This whole process has resulted in grotesquely inflated tax burdens on real property - and all with no vote by

Do you now see what I meant when I said King George could get some pointers from the Supreme Court and BTA? Pure unadulterated taxation without representation.

Recently Gov. Rhodes asked the BTA to freeze the property valuations for taxation purposes at their Jan. 1, 1975 levels. I find some folks in Fayette County are misunderstanding the implications of this ruling as far as our county is concerned.

This ruling, which is only a temporary stop-gap measure until legislation can be implemented, does not mean our appraised values for taxation purposes will be what they were Jan. 1, 1975 before and irregardless of our sexennial reappraisal which has been the subject of so much conversation.

It does mean that our reappraisal will be completed as planned all along and these absurdly inflated "true market values" will be determined. Since our reappraisal will be completed in 1976, these values will then be scaled back to the Jan. 1, 1975 level. If you hoped for it to be otherwise, you were engaging in wishful thinking.

the Supreme Court and the BTA.

Well, we now see to what extent these groups or agencies have helped us. I predict you haven't seen anything yet. The legislature is apparently coming to the realization as to what a monsterous thing has been saddled on the owners of real property, so they are now getting into the act. Based on the suggestions I am beginning to hear from men of presumed influence and judgment, I can see where the entire tax structure could be made a sham-

I do hope to give you more details and a couple of suggestions. These will be entirely too simple for the men on the state level to even consider - perhaps.

If the Editor will be generous and considerate to the same extent he has in the past, I will make this the subject of another letter.

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

The big question is the city budget cut. It's my personal view to not cut the police and fire or any city service. There are ways to do this I believe.

If we recall 1971 there was meeting after meeting held on the same problem. I remember because at that time I was president of the Fraternal Order of Police Association. At that time I believe that the people of the city of Washington C. H. would have and still will accept a one half per cent city income tax.

I would like to say this to the city of Washington C. H. in the bicentennial year 1976 and the birthday of are (our) country. I am happy to say that we are free people of the world and freedom of speech, so I say this to you, we don't need ballots, etc. There are costs to us in this, and you talk about cutting costs. So I say this, we the city of Washington C. H. should agree on a one half per cent city income tax and we should do this: write a card or letter to:

We ask the chairman and council to appoint a committee as follows: One member of the police department and one member from the fire department, and also one member of the street service, and three persons from the city of Washington C. Lions need revenge win to stay in race

Record-Herald Sports Writer

Revenge is what the Washington C. H. Blue Lions are after when they play host to the Wilmington Hurricane this Friday at the WSHS gym.

Earlier this season, the Lions were riding a three game winning streak before being shot down by the Hurricane at Wilmington by a score of 51-49. Now the Lions have won four in a row, and they get a chance to avenge the earlier loss in front of their hometown fans.

The Lions essentially gave away the game last time by missing five one-and-one situations in the final quarter and missing numerous field goal attempts. Also their inflated turnover total in the final minutes contributed to their downfall.

Wilmington, once in a spot to challenge the league leader, Circleville, have fallen upon hard times and their record now stands at 7-6 overall and 5-5 in the SCOL. They have lost their last three league contests after sporting a 5-2 record at one time.

Some members of the Hurriane have been disciplined this season which has no doubt hurt the team's chances for a league crown. Junior Tony Berlin led the league in scoring at one time with a 26.3 average including two 30plus games. But, he was forced to sit out one game for non-athletic disciplinary reasons and never regained his early season form.

The Hurricane fields a big, bruising team with six men over 6-foot-1 on their roster. The lineup they will employ on Friday will probably consist of five men from this list of six possibles: Gary Williams, Greg Williams, Steve Williams, Steve Hart, Dale Achtermann, and Berlin.

Assured of starting positions are Gary Williams, a 6-3 sophomore center, and Berlin, a 6-3 forward. These two are still the Hurricane's leading point-getters as Berlin carries a 14.9 average and Williams averages 10.8 a game.

Achtermann, a 6-2 senior, has been playing well as of late and sports a 7.8 average. Steve Williams, a junior guard, has a 7.2 mean and junior forward Steve Hart has an average of 6.8.

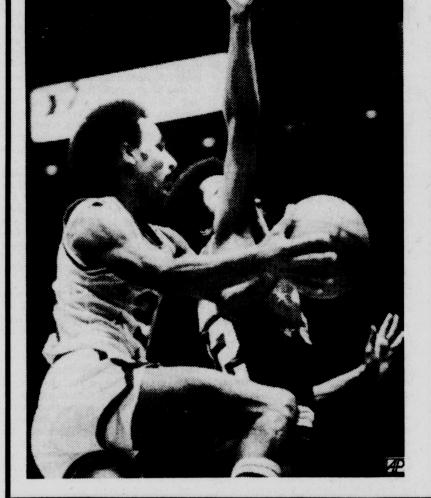

Blue Lion head coach Gary Shaffer pointed out that the team will be looking to improve their shooting percentage from the last encounter with Wilmington and that he would start the game with his regular starting five.

Seniors Chuck Byrd, Doug Phillips, and Ken Upthegrove will team with junior Dee Hart Foster and sophomore John Denen to start the game for Washington. Height will be an asset for both teams with the rebounding of Williams, Berlin, and Achtermann being pitted against that of Byrd, Denen, Phillips, and Upthegrove.

Court House's three offensive threats presently average nearly the same. Phillips leads the team with a 13.8 average while followed closely by Denen and Byrd with identical 13.6 cards. Upthegrove, an important rebounder, tosses 7.2 through the hoop every game and Foster's 4.2 average rounds out the starting five.

This game, like every one remaining for the Lions, is a must game. With Circleville's 9-1 record, Washington needs to see Miami Trace upset the Tigers this week and then knock off both the Panthers and the Tigers just to share the crown with Circleville.

In any event, the Lions have to play one game at a time and concentrating on beating Wilmington — a team that Court House painfully learned, can beat anyone on a given

The game was a homecoming for North Carolina's Tom LaGarde, a former Detroit prep star. He rose to the occasion, scoring 21 points and collecting 10 rebounds.

Elsewhere in college basketball, Maryland fifth-ranked whipped Virginia 69-66; No. 11 Notre Dame walloped LaSalle 108-89; Georgetown upset No. 12 St. John's 74-73 in overtime; Kansas State stunned No. 13 Missouri 85-81; 16th-ranked Cincinnati trimmed Pitt 89-77 and No. 19 Western Michigan beat Loyola of Chicago 80-73.

Some 9,500 spectators at Detroit's Memorial Building saw the Titans take 11 more shots than the Tar Heels in the first half but hit only 33 per cent. Yet the Titans managed to stay close, 38-31, at the half and it wasn't until midway through the second half that North Carolina pulled away. Mitch Kupchak, a 6-foot-10, 230-pound senior, scored 15 points in each half, while the 6-10 junior LaGarde had 16 of his points after intermission for Carolina.

Brad Davis' two free throws with three seconds left sealed Maryland's victory over Virginia. Two foul shots by Mo Howard with 17 seconds remaining had given the Terps a 67-64 lead, but Bobby Stokes' tip-in basket pulled the Cavaliers within one point. Virginia then called a timeout but was called for a technical foul for taking too many Adrian Dantley scored 41 points to lead Notre Dame past LaSalle; Derrick Jackson had 23 points and hit a 17-foot jumper with 1:10 to play in overtime, leading Georgetown over St. John's; Chuckie Williams and Mike Evans combined for 52 points as Kansas State stopped Missouri; Cincinnati beat Pitt behind Robert Miller's 21 points and Jeff Tyson and Paul Griffin led Western Michigan's victory.

Baseball's option clause ruling favors players

By FRED ROTHENBERG AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Will baseball's owners, with two strikes against them. come out swinging? Or will they will give up their turn at bat so the real game can begin?

That's the predicament in which the sports finds itself today after the second of two umpires turned thumbs down on the owners and their interpretation of baseball's historic option

On Wednesday in Kansas City, Judge John W. Oliver of U.S. District Cout upheld the Dec. 23 ruling by arbitrator Peter Seitz that pitchers Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally were free agents because they had played one year beyond their contractual com-

The owners swung and missed against Seitz and didn't connect with Oliver, but another swing — an appeal of Oliver's decision - could jeopardize the 1976 baseball season.

The labor contract between the owners and the Major League Baseball Players Association expired Dec. 31. Negotiations have been under way but fruitless. The union says that the sides will get no closer to an agreement if the owners continue taking their case to court. The owners, meanwhile, have threatened a delay in spring training if there is no signed agreement by then.

"What we have here is a labor relations problem and it can only be solved in one way — at the bargaining table," Miller said. "We have to negotiate a change.'

Miller said the owners are listening to the advice of their lawyers who are not versed in labor relations and have steered a steady course in the direction of the courts.

John J. Gaherin, the owners' bargaining agent and their principal labor relations expert, says his preference is for a negotiated settlement but the owners have the right to take every legal avenue open to

Goalie injury helps Rangers

I recently learned that I have Dear Mrs. E .: a "horseshoe" kidney. I have been told that I can live a physicians, for a long time, normal life with this condition, have seemed to "close their some added assurance about this. Mr. J.D., Neb.

Dear Mr. D.:

The horseshoe shape of your kidneys does not suggest that there is any malfunction of this important organ.

Unusual conditions of the entire urinary tract, from the kidneys to the bladder, are very common. Because of some quirk in development, these malformations occur.

It is estimated that this condition happens in about one out of every 500 people

Normally, two individual kidneys lie deep inside the abdomen. They are separate and distinct. A "horseshoe" kidney simply means that the lower ends of the kidneys are fused together, giving it this distinctive shape.

In the absence of any disease, there is no reason why this anatomical variation should in any way alter your health, your productivity or your longevity.

Many sophisticated yet I would feel better if I got eyes" to the truth that some people can predict weather by their sinuses, by pains in the joints, muscle aches, and even allergies.

I believe that all of us in the practice of medicine now recognize that weather does affect the physical and psychological well-being of many people. It is an unexplained paradox that some people with sinus infections actually feel better in bad weather. One would expect the reverse. It is for this very reason that I always suggest that before anyone makes a move to another climate he should first test it out for a reasonable length of time.

Many sufferers from asthma, sinus infection and arthritis have prematurely sold their houses and their businesses, only to find that the climatic Utopia they sought was a physical disappointment.
